Daddy's Evening Fairy Tale

by MARY GRAHAM BONNER

BILLIE BROWNIE'S DISCOVERY

"It is perfectly ridiculous," said Billie Brownie, "to say one doesn't like a race of people because one has met one member of that race whom one didn't like."

"It is utterly absurd for anyone to say that children aren't nice because he may have met one child he didn't like."

"It is very stupid to say anything like that, for I have discovered something."

"Yes," said
Bennie Brownie,
"tell me about it, Billie."

"I was thinking principally about birds," said Billie Brownie.

"I've been meeting some of the winter birds. Such dear brave creatures, not minding the snow or the cold weather, trying to be cheery and bright—even when their supply of food runs low."

"There are the darling little Song-Sparrows. How I do love the Song-Sparrows."

"They have spotted throats and their vests are spotted, too, you know, and in the center they always have one spot which is larger than the others."

"They eat harmful insects and do just as much good as ever they can."

"Then there are the Cedar Waxwings. They are always trying to destroy harmful flies, and they try to give cheer in the winter time."

"The Chickadees are as cheerful and bright as they can be, and they eat insect eggs and do all the work they can."

"They love to be given suet in the winter time so as to feel that their work is being thought well of and so that they may know that they are well liked."

"But the goshawk is very different."

"He is a bad creature. He will do as much harm as the Great Horned Owl, and he does a great deal of harm about poultry yards that the so-called 'hen hawk' is supposed to do."

"Yes, old Goshawk is a bad creature. He isn't quite so big, nor is he quite as strong as his mate—for in the hawk families the Mrs. Hawks have more strength and are of greater size as a rule than their mates."

"He is a handsome fellow and wears a gray-blue cape and a gray waistcoat."

"He is hated among the birds for he is so cruel and drives them to the ground only to kill them and have a meal."

"He attacks the partridge family, and someone said that a Goshawk will even put on such airs that he will only eat brains of pheasants—and kill pheasants just to eat their brains which he thinks are delicacies."

"But you see, one cannot judge all birds by the Goshawk or the Butcher Bird."

"So, if someone had only known those two birds and said they disliked all birds, it would be just the same as it is when someone has met one or two people of a certain race or a certain town and has happened to meet disagreeable ones and then says:

"I know all about those people. I've met some. And I don't like them."

"For there are some few bad birds, but most of them are splendid."

"So I have discovered that one cannot judge by meeting just one or two of any group—no, one cannot judge at all."

"And I really do believe that it is only fair to judge each creature by what he or she does."

"That is what I have come to believe."

"And I agree with you, Billie Brownie," said Bennie Brownie. "I agree with every word you've said."

Frightened.

Jimmy, who was inclined to be a braggart, was telling his father and mother of his experiences while out camping.

"And all at once I stepped on a big rattlesnake," he began.

"How did you know it was a rattlesnake, Jimmy?" asked his father, sceptically.

"I could hear its teeth chattering the minute it saw me."

"And now, Johnny," said the teacher,
"can you tell me what is raised in Mexico?"

"Aw, go on," replied the bright boy.

"I know what you want me to say, but ma told me I shouldn't talk rough."

LESSON FOR SEPTEMBER 3

NEHEMIAH REBUILDS THE WALLS OF JERUSALEM

LESSON TEXT—Neh. 2:1-7:4.
GOLDEN TEXT—Our God will fight for us.—Neh. 4:20.

REFERENCE MATERIAL—Neh. 2:9-20;
1 Cor. 12:17.

PRIMARY TOPIC—How God helped Nehemiah Build a Wall.

JUNIOR TOPIC—How a City Wall Was Rebuilt.

INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC —Praying, Watching, Working.

YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC —Success Through Leadership and Cooperation.

Having secured a leave of absence from the Persian court, and credentials from the king, Nehemiah journeyed to Jerusalem. After resting three days without disclosing his purpose to any one, he made a survey of the walls by night. Having thus obtained first-hand information he called the representatives of the Jews together and said, "Let us build the walls of Jerusalem." He then made known the hand of providence in bringing him to Jerusalem with the authority to rebuild its walls. He thus showed great wisdom in finding out for himself the real conditions and what work would be required to restore the walls. The one who is qualified to lead in a great undertaking is the one who has mastered the situation and is thus able to remove objections and show how the work can be done.

1.—Preparation for the Building
(ch. 3).

The division of labor in this project shows Nehemiah's administrative ability. A wise distribution of labor makes difficult tasks easy.

Note some outstanding features of this great work.

1. Stress Laid Upon Indifference
(3:5) In administrative tasks it is just that unfaithfulness should be pointed out. Such action will be a warning to some and an encouragement to others by showing the integrity of the director.

2. Help Rendered by the Women
(3:12) Perhaps Shaltiel had no sons to aid him. It is a fine thing for women to be able to take hold even in building a wall when there are no men to do it. God's word carefully notes such extraordinary acts.

3. Stress Laid Upon Earnestness of Some (3:20). If one knows that his faithfulness will be recognized he will earnestly pursue his tasks.

4. Every One Built Over Against His Own House (3:10, 23, 28). Man's chief concern is for his family. No incentive to exertion is quite so strong as that which concerns his own family.

5. Certain Guilds of Men Undertook Certain Work (ch. 3:8, 31, 32). Wise administration sometimes calls for such alignment of efforts. Men of the same class and craft will usually work better together.

11. Hindrances Encountered (4:1-4; 14).

1. Scoffing of Sanballat and Tobiah
(4:1-6; cf. 2:19-20). The opposers of God's servants usually begin by hurling at them shafts of ridicule. They called the Jews but a feeble folk and asserted that the tread of a prowling fox would break down their stone wall.

2. Conspiracy of a Sudden Attack
(4:7-9). When the enemy saw that the work was actually succeeding they changed from ridicule to an attempt to throw the workmen into a panic and thus hinder the work. When the enemy cannot succeed by scoffing then he resorts to intimidation.

3. Conspiracy With the Jews (4:
10-23). They sought by means of the Jews from the outside to discourage their brethren by showing that the task was hopeless and that at any time they were subject to a sudden and secret attack.

4. Greed and Oppression of the Rulers (5:1-13). The Jews of that day, like the profiteers in the recent World War, took advantage of the poor and oppressed them so that they mortgaged their land and sold their daughters into slavery. Nehemiah boldly rebuked them for their crimes and ordered a restoration to be made, exactness an oath of them that they would fulfill their promises.

5. Scheme to Take Nehemiah's Life
(6:1-14). When Sanballat and Tobiah failed in every other way they sought by craft to get Nehemiah away that they might kill him.

111. The Wall Completed (6:15-7:4).

So energetically did they pursue their tasks that in fifty-two days the wall was completed. When the enemies heard that in spite of all their schemes the work was actually completed, they were cast down, for they perceived that the work was of God.

MRS. ABBEY PROUD OF HER BIG GAIN

Weight Increased 39 Pounds and Nine Years' Trouble Ended.

"I hardly see how I endured such awful suffering, and if it hadn't been for Tanlac I don't believe I would be here today," said Mrs. Mollie Abbey, of Jennings Lodge, Ore.

"For nine years everything I ate caused gas to form so that it almost drove me distracted. I didn't dare eat any fruit and for four years if I even drank a glass of cold water I would suffer dreadfully. No one who didn't see me can imagine the awful condition I was in."

"But Tanlac changed all this and now I'm simply feeling fine. My appetite is splendid. I eat anything I want, have actually gained thirty-nine pounds and have so much strength and energy I easily do all my housework. Tanlac is a wonderful medicine."

Tanlac is sold by all good druggists.

CHAPTERS OF AUTO ACCIDENTS

Isaac Mickley, 66, of Cashtown, who had been summoned for jury duty at court this week, received a fracture of the right leg between the knee and hip, Sunday afternoon, when he was struck by an auto in Cashtown, driven by H. S. Wise, of near Chambersburg. Mr. Mickley was walking, shielding himself from the rain with an umbrella which he had pulled down over his head. Mr. Wise is said to have acknowledged that his attention was diverted from the roadway for an instant and he failed to see the approaching pedestrian. The car hurled Mr. Mickley about 10 feet into a gutter. Mr. Wise stopped and rendered all possible assistance. Mr. Mickley was removed to the Warner hospital Sunday evening.

Blinded by the strong headlights of an approaching machine, J. F. Bowers, of York, hit the cement side walls of the culvert on the Hanover-Abbottstown road between Hartman's road and Abbottstown on Sunday evening, badly wrecking his car. Mr. Bowers was accompanied by his wife and three children, one of whom, a daughter, was badly cut on the head by flying glass from the windshield. She was taken to the office of Dr. T. C. Miller, Abbottstown, who gave the necessary surgical attention. The machine was taken to the Abbottstown garage for repairs.

A light six Studebaker touring car driven by Daniel Light, York, skidded on the wet surface of the Littlestown pike about a mile south of Littlestown Sunday afternoon and went over an embankment, tilting and smashing the left hind wheel. Mrs. Light was badly bruised and suffered from shock. A passing motorist took the family to Littlestown.

Jas. Straw, 22, was admitted to the York hospital on Saturday with a fractured skull and concussion of brain as the result of a fall from the rear of an auto truck, caused by the chain supporting the engine unhooking in going over a bump in the road. Straw landed on his head.

A Ford coupe, driven by a man named Baker, of Hanover, crashed into Victor Cocklin's automobile, in York, Sunday evening, damaging both cars. The matter was amicably adjusted.

A brown Empire touring car, which skidded and ran into an embankment along the Abbottstown pike near Hartman's mill Saturday afternoon, evidently deserted by its owner, had 3 of its tires stolen Saturday night. The fourth tire was pinned beneath the damaged car.

While Pius Meckley, of Blooming Grove, was driving thru Midway on Saturday afternoon an auto crashed into the rear of his buggy, smashing the rear wheels.

A touring car, property of Lester Sentz, of Greenmount, was completely demolished in a smashup with a Maryland car on Saturday evening. The occupants were not injured.

The 23rd annual convention of the Adams County S. S. Assn. opened at Fairfield yesterday and will close today. A feature of the opening session was a sermon by Rev. Dr. H. B. Stock, of Carlisle. The devotional period was in charge of Rev. Ralph Baker. The meeting was then divided into three divisional conferences for adults, for young people and children. This Thursday evening a street parade of all those attending the convention will be held. Today the annual Sunday School Conference of Young People will also be held in Fairfield.

Mr. and Mrs. Dennis Fisel, White Run, have returned home from a visit to Youngstown, Ohio, and Pittsburgh. They were accompanied home by Miss Mary E. Funk.

YORKERS HURT AT ABBOTTSTOWN

After skidding on the Lincoln Highway, just east of Abbottstown, Sunday afternoon, a machine driven by Robt. McPherson, proprietor of the Colonial hotel, York, was ditched and four of the occupants injured. Mr. and Mrs. Murdock McPherson, parents of the hotel man, were taken to West Side sanatorium, York. Two children of Robt. McPherson were also in the car. Murdock McPherson, the most seriously injured, suffered a scalp wound and possible other injuries. His wife suffered a gash over her left eye, which required several stitches. Mrs. Robt. McPherson suffered bruises about the body. A maid suffered from a gash over her right eye. The accident occurred when Mr. McPherson drew his brakes tight, to avoid colliding with a car that stopped a short distance in front of his. The drawing of the brakes caused the car to skid over a 4-foot embankment, turning it on the side. Murdock McPherson was thrown against the bank, hitting his head. The car was slightly damaged.

The following motored from Harrisburg to the home of Mrs. Henry Rinehart, Sr., near town, on Sunday: Mr. and Mrs. Harry Gittel and two daughters, Gladys and Bessie, George Rinehart, Ralph Grot, George Reifer, Misses Emma Reinhardt and Gentle Chronister, Mr. and Mrs. Ed. McLinn, Bobby and Teddy McLinn, Mr. and Mrs. Richard McLinn and daughter Virginia, Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Reininger and son Frank, Frank Newmesper, Miss Ethel Kimmel and Mrs. Guy Gladfelter, Mr. and Mrs. Quinn Guyman, Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Goulden and granddaughter, Evelyn Ness, and Frank Anzer. The following visited at the same place: Misses Margaret and Elizabeth James, of Baltimore; Henry Rinehart, Jr. and family, Henry, Margaret and Sarah, John Rinehart, Lewis Smith and family, Eugene, Merna and Gladys, Lizzie Rinehart, F. X. Grot and family, Edna, Ethel, Charles and Harry, Charles Rinehart and family, Margaret, Florence and Charles, Mr. and Mrs. Allen Brashshears, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Gebhart, Pauline and Earl Gebhart, W. L. Kohler, Lester Rider and Harvey Taughinbaugh.

Cause of Appendicitis.—When the bowels are constipated, the lower bowels or large intestines become packed with refuse matter, that is made up largely of germs. These germs enter the vermiform appendix and set up inflammation, which is commonly known as appendicitis. Take Chamberlain's Tablets when needed and keep your bowels regular and you have little to fear from appendicitis.

One of the entertainment features of the annual State Convention of the Pennsylvania Association of Letter Carriers, which will be held in York, September 4 and 5, will be a tour of the Gettysburg battlefield. The delegates will arrive Saturday and Sunday and the trip to Gettysburg will be made Sunday afternoon. It is expected between 100 and 125 carriers will attend the convention.

Mrs. Caroline Craig, (colored), York, whose age on the voting list appears at 106, to a reporter declared that she is "a straight plumb Republican" and will be so until she is no longer physically able to cast her ballot. Regular habits, plenty of rest, a word not to imply laziness, and determination are Mrs. Craig's formula for a life worth living.

Miss Martha McKay, superintendent of the Lumdale Hospital, at Lumdale, W. Va., who was elected superintendent of the Warner Hospital, at Gettysburg, by the Board of Directors to succeed Miss Elizabeth M. Thomas, whose resignation was accepted by the board a month ago with regret, will assume charge tomorrow.

The potato growers of Pennsylvania Friday afternoon presented the Pennsylvania State College with a subscription fund for the erection of a modern hospital for the use of the college students. Four thousand farmers, representing every county in the state, witnessed the ground breaking.

The recently opened General Cigar factory in Gettysburg is advertising for 150 hands, and the building may be enlarged.

The Abbottstown baseball team on Saturday afternoon defeated the Clearview nine, 8 to 5, at the Farmers' picnic.

The Conewago township schools will open on next Monday.

HAGERSTOWN PLAYERS

INJURED IN SMASH

Four members of the Hagerstown team of the Blue Ridge league were injured on Saturday at 7 p. m., when an auto in which they were returning to that place after a game at Hanover, struck a telegraph pole along the W. M. R. R. at Brush Run. Three of the players will be out of the game for the remainder of the season. The injured were: Holmes Diehl, Frostburg, Md., center fielder, piece of flesh torn out of right hand. "Lefty" Russell, pitcher, few scratches; John Layne, Clifton Forge, Va., second baseman, cut on top of the head; William Relly, pitcher, burst blood vessel in right leg. Six of the players were returning in a touring car driven by John Nunemaker, of Hagerstown. At the crossing, Nunemaker saw a freight train approaching. He endeavored to turn into a side road, but the turn was too sharp and he ran the car into a telegraph pole, wrecking the machine. Had the car not hit the pole, it would not have crossed the tracks without being struck by the locomotive. Diehl and Russell were thrown from the car. They were seated with the driver, who was unhurt. Layne, seated in the rear, was thrown against the top and rendered unconscious. He was taken to the Gettysburg hospital, being discharged next morning. Chas. Moran and Jas. Kehoe were unhurt.

A question of more than passing interest to New Oxford and surrounding districts will be taken up at the next Hanover School Board meeting, September 5th. If non-resident students are allowed to enter the Hanover high school it will mean, and within a period of one or two years, that a new building will have to be built there at an outlay of at least $250,000. It is understood that pressure will be brought to bear on the school board by state school interests looking to the continued attendance there of outsiders. Hanover taxpayers are bearing part of the burden of educating 175 students who are not Hanoverians. Transients will be cared for this year but, as for the future, action will be taken at the coming meeting.

Blinded by the glaring lights of another automobile, the driver of a Packard Twin-Six drove his car into a ditch Thursday night on the Lincoln highway, a mile east of Abbottstown. The top of the machine was completely torn off, but the two occupants of the car were uninjured. The car, owned by the American garage, of Columbia, was returning from a trip to Waynesboro and was taken to Columbia, later, under its own power.

Nora, 7-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. David Wolf, Hanover, who swallowed a ring on August 13, has fully improved from the effects of the ordeal, since the ring has been recovered. For several days after swallowing the finger ring, which was mounted with a stone, the child experienced discomfort. Now she has fully regained her health.

While riding on a motorcycle driven by Paul Jacoby, Edw. Albright, 15, in attempting to recover his cap which had blown off, stepped in the course of a car owned by B. P. Topper, McSherrytown, driven by his son, Curtis, and suffered a fractured leg in Hanover on Wednesday.

About 30 employees of the Hanover Power Company construction department enjoyed an outing Thursday at Dicks.

Arrest or imprisonment of any woman for failure to pay tax is prohibited in Pennsylvania.

LADIES! SECRET TO DARKEN GRAY HAIR

Bring Back its Color and Lustre
with Grandma's Sage
Tea Recipe.

Common garden sage brewed into a heavy tea, with sulphur and alcohol added, will turn gray, streaked and faded hair beautifully dark and luxuriant. Mixing the Sage Tea and Sulphur recipe at home, though, is troublesome. An easier way is to get the ready-to-use preparation improved by the addition of other ingredients a large bottle, at little cost, at drug stores, known as "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound," thus avoiding a lot of fuss.

While gray, faded hair is not sinful, we all desire to retain our youthful appearance and attractiveness. By darkening your hair with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound, no one can tell, because it does it so naturally, so evenly. You just dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning all gray hairs have disappeared. After another application or two your hair becomes beautifully dark, glossy, soft and luxuriant and you appear years younger. Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound is a delightful toilet requisite. It is not intended for the cure, mitigation or prevention of disease.

HERE AND THERE

Older presses in Adams county are busy these days with more than a fair crop of apples being harvested.

W. E. Jacobs, York Springs, recently sold two good horses for $50 and a few days ago two dogs for a similar sum.

Keen rivalry among 200 boys and girls in competition for prizes offered in various events marked the closing of the Gettysburg Playground, on Friday.

An electric cabinet presented to the Warner hospital by the members of the Thursday Bridge Club of Gettysburg has been installed in their institution and is ready for use.

A cat belonging to John Strausbaugh, of near Larue, which attained the remarkable age of 28 years, died Wednesday. It is believed that this the oldest cat in that section.

Mrs. John Albert, of near Upper Latimore, has raised a Guinea bean in her garden measuring 4 ft. and 4 in. She has also obtained this season five bushels of fine plums from one tree.

Miss Geraldine Lookenbill, of Parkville, an employee of the Middleburg sewing factory, is suffering from an infected right arm. At first it was feared blood poisoning would develop.

John Mickley, of Gettysburg Troop 2, was one of the 3 Boy Scouts given the grade of Eagle Scout at a camp fire held at Camp Rothrock, Cumberland county. Frank Gardner is the other Eagle Scout in Gettysburg.

It looks as though a sleek stranger has bunched some York Springs citizens out of about $150, going and forgetting to return and fill an appointment to meet with them and form an organization to further a bright scheme.

Irvin Plattenburg, of Gettysburg, on Friday had his wrist fractured while attempting to throw a belt on a shaft at the Eagle sick throwing plant, where he is employed. It is said that Mr. Plattenburg's arm was caught by the belt and wrapped around the shaft.

Jordan Bowers, of near Heidlersburg, ran into the buggy of Jno. Gable in York Springs Monday week, upsetting and considerably damaging the vehicle. Luckily, Mr. Gable and his wife, who was also in the buggy, escaped serious injuries, tho the latter sustained a bruised leg. Bowers was blinded by the lights of an approaching car.

Fired on from an ambush of trees at a lonely spot near Winding Hill, as he was driving from his home in Dillsburg, to work in Harrisburg Wednesday night, Francis H. Hamilton, 32 years old, stooped and was struck unconscious by the hold-up men and robbed of about $35. Two men were in the party that attacked Hamilton, according to his story when he regained consciousness in the Harrisburg hospital, two hours later. He was found unconscious under the car, which had been jammed under a culvert along the roadway. Hamilton is employed in the office of the American Express company.

At the largest convention of the State Camp P. O. S. of A. held last week in Johnstown, W. H. Long, of Hanover, was elected State Guard, a position coveted by lodge men generally and contested for by five candidates. Mr. Long went before the convention with the support of the York and Adams county bodies. The position leads to the office of State President. Mr. Long was also elected a delegate to the National camp, which will convene in Philadelphia next year, it being the diamond jubilee of the order. Dr. Eugene Elgin, of the East Berlin Camp, received the prize for bringing in the largest number of members during the year. He is a past County President.

Same Old Story, But a Good One.—Mrs. Mahala Burns, Savanna, Mo., relates an experience, the like of which has happened in almost every neighborhood in this country, and has been told and related by thousands of others, as follows: "I used a bottle of Chamberlain's Colic and Diarrhoea Remedy about nine years ago and it cured me of flux (dysentery). I had another attack of the same complaint three or four years ago and a few doses cured me. I have recommended it to dozens of people since I first used it and shall continue to do so for I know it is a quick and positive cure for bowel troubles."

Hunger, the Best House.—Hunger is used to create an appetite or relish for the food. The right way is to look to your digestion. When you have good digestion you are certain to relish your food. Chamberlain's Tablets improve the digestion, create a healthy appetite and cause a gentle movement of the bowels.

PROPOSED AMENDMENT TO THE CONSTITUTION SUBMITTED TO THE CITIZENS OF THE COMMONWEALTH FOR THEIR APPROVAL OR REJECTION AT THE ELECTION TO BE HELD ON TUESDAY, NOVEMBER 7, 1922, BY THE GENERAL ASSEMBLY OF THE COMMONWEALTH OF PENNSYLVANIA, AND PUBLISHED BY ORDER OF THE SECRETARY OF THE COMMONWEALTH, IN PURSUANCE OF ARTICLE XVIII OF THE CONSTITUTION.

Number One.

A JOINT RESOLUTION

Proposing an amendment to section one (1) of article fifteen (XV) of the Constitution of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania.

Section 1. Be it resolved by the Senate and House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania in General Assembly met, That the following amendment to the Constitution of Pennsylvania be, and the same is hereby, proposed, in accordance with the eighteenth article thereof:—

That section one of article fifteen, which reads as follows: "Section 1. Cities may be chartered whenever a majority of the electors of any town or borough having a population of at least ten thousand shall vote at any general election in favor of the same," be, and the same is hereby, amended to read as follows:—

Section 1. Cities may be chartered whenever a majority of the electors of any town or borough having a population of at least ten thousand shall vote at any general or municipal election in favor of the same. Cities, or cities of any particular class, may be given the right and power to frame and adopt their own charters and to exercise the powers and authority of local self-government, subject, however, to such restrictions, limitations, and regulations, as may be imposed by the Legislature. Laws also may be enacted affecting the organization and government of cities and boroughs, which shall become effective in any city or borough only when submitted to the electors thereof, and approved by a majority of those voting thereon.

Proposing an amendment to article nine, section four, of the Constitution of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania.

That section four of article nine, which reads as follows: "Section 4. No debt shall be created by or on behalf of the State, except to supply casual deficiencies of revenue, repel invasions, suppress insurrection, defend the State in war, or to pay existing debt; and the debt created to supply deficiencies in revenue shall never exceed, in the aggregate at any one time, one million dollars: Provided, however, That the General Assembly, irrespective of any debt, may authorize the State to issue bonds to the amount of fifty millions of dollars for the purpose of improving and rebuilding the highways of the Commonwealth," be amended so as to read as follows:—

Section 4. No debt shall be created by or on behalf of the State, except to supply casual deficiencies of revenue, repel invasions, suppress insurrection, defend the State in war, or to pay existing debt; and the debt created to supply deficiencies in revenue shall never exceed, in the aggregate at any one time, one million dollars: Provided, however, That the General Assembly, irrespective of any debt, may authorize the State to issue bonds to the amount of fifty millions of dollars for the purpose of improving and rebuilding the highways of the Commonwealth: Provided further, however, That the General Assembly, irrespective of any debt, may authorize the State to issue bonds to the amount of thirty-five million dollars for the payment of compensation to certain persons from this State who served in the Army, Navy, or Marine Corps of the United States, during the World War, between the sixth day of April, one thousand nine hundred and seventeen, and the eleventh day of November, one thousand nine hundred and eighteen.

Section 2. Said proposed amendment shall be submitted to the qualified electors of the State, at the general election to be held on the Tuesday next following the first Monday of November in the year nineteen hundred and twenty-four, for the purpose of deciding upon the approval and ratification or the rejection of said amendment. Said election shall be opened, held, and closed upon said election day at the places and within the hours at and within which said election is directed to be opened, held, and closed, and in accordance with the provisions of the laws of Pennsylvania governing elections. Such amendment shall be printed upon the ballots in the form and manner prescribed by the election laws of Pennsylvania, and shall in all respects conform to the requirement of such laws.

FIREMEN'S CONVENTION AT

McSHERRYSTOWN ON MONDAY

The Co. Firemen's convention will be held in McSherrystown on Labor Day, Sept. 4, and the plans for the celebration are now completed. Each The meeting will be held in St. Mary's hall at 8:30 a. m. at which time officers will be elected for the ensuing year, the place of holding the next annual convention selected and other important business transacted. A parade has been arranged to take place at 10:15 o'clock. Immediately afterward the firemen will take cars for Witmer's park where a picnic will be held during the remainder of the day. A dancing floor, 60 feet square, has been erected at the park.

A good orchestra will be secured for dancing. Refreshments will be on sale at stands and a midway will be erected on the grounds. Amusements of all sorts for young and old will be provided. Judge Eugene Bonniwell, Philadelphia, past president of the state firemen's association, will deliver an address on the picnic grounds at 2 p. m.

Arrangements have been made to have the grounds illuminated by electricity and the affair will be kept up until a late hour. Large delegations of firemen from each company in the association are urged to take part in the parade, and the picnic is open to the public.

Ample police protection will be provided against bootlegging at the Firemen's Convention. Souvenir badges will be furnished to all firemen and their guests who attend this affair. Arrangements are being made to serve dinner and supper to 2000 people, who are expected to attend.

The committee has underwritten expenses by taking out rain insurance for $500.

The parade is expected to include every fire company except New Oxford and practically every band in Adams county together with one or two from other places. Several of the companies have bought new uniforms specially for this event. The speakers also include H. O. Holstein, Harrisburg; Jacob Weaver, Esq. and John W. Heller, Esq., of York. Plans will be laid at the meeting for Adams county to have an entire division in the parade at the state firemen's convention in Harrisburg in October.

Geo. F. Eckenrode will be chief marshal with the following acting as aides: F. V. Topper, John Timmins, Ray Sheely and Joseph Hemler. The parade will consist of several divisions.

Hot Weather Diseases.—Disorders of the bowels are extremely dangerous, particularly during the hot weather of the summer months, and in order to protect yourself and family against a sudden attack, get a bottle of Chamberlain's Colic and Diarrhoea Remedy. It can be depended upon. Many have testified to its excellence.

The Abbottstown troop of Boy Scouts spent Monday and Tuesday at the Scout Camp, near Dicks. Seventeen scouts went into camp Sunday noon. Jas. Baugher, of New Oxford, acted as one of the instructors. The Abbottstown troop was in charge of Prof. John A. Hale, scoutmaster, and George Haines, assistant scoutmaster.

A reunion of the Wolf family was held at Caledonia Park Saturday with 125 members present. It was decided to hold the next meeting at Marsh creek, near Gettysburg, where the ancestors of the Wolf family first settled on coming to this country. Emory Gerrick, Littlestown, was elected treasurer.

J. W. Cassatt, near New Baltimore, held the lucky card and secured a new 1923 Ford touring car, given away by the Abbottstown Garage as a matter of advertising on Saturday.

After tomorrow, the Gettysburg curb market will open at 6 o'clock.

DRINK MORE WATER IF KIDNEYS BOTHER

That low meat and take Salts for Backache or Bladder trouble—Neutralizes acids.

Uric acid in meat excites the kidneys, they become overworked; get sluggish, ache, and feel like lumps of lead. The urine becomes cloudy; the bladder is irritated, and you may be obliged to seek relief two or three times during the night. When the kidneys clog you must help them flush off the body's urinous waste or you'll be a real sick person shortly. At first you feel a dull misery in the kidney region, you suffer from backache, sick headache, dizziness, stomach gets sour, tongue coated and you feel rheumatic twinges when the weather is bad. Eat less meat, drink lots of water; also get from any pharmacist four ounces of Jad Salts; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine. This famous salt is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to clean clogged kidneys and stimulate them to normal activity, also to neutralize the acids in urine, so it no longer is a source of irritation, thus ending bladder weakness.

Jad Salts is inexpensive, cannot injure; makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink which everyone should take now and then to keep the kidneys clean and active. Druggists here say they sell lots of Jad Salts to folks who believe in overcoming kidney trouble while it is only trouble.

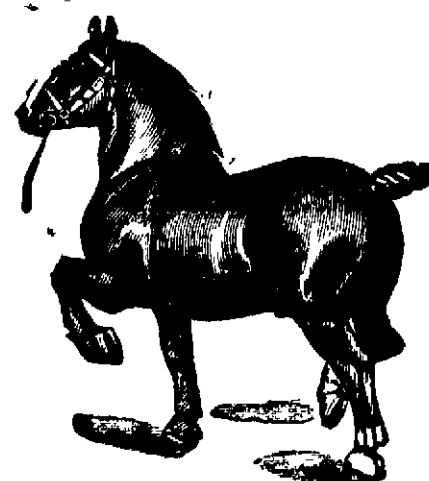

CREAM CLEARS A STUFFED-UP HEAD

Instantly Opens Every Air Passage—Clears Throat Too.

If your nostrils are clogged and your head is stuffed because of nasty catarrh or a cold, apply a little pure, antiseptic cream into your nostrils. It penetrates through every air passage, soothing and healing swollen, inflamed membranes and you get instant relief.

Try this. Get a small bottle of Ely's Cream Balm at any drug store. Your clogged nostrils open right up; your head is clear; no more hawking or snuffing. Count fifty. All the stuffiness, dryness, struggling for breath is gone. You feel fine.

OSTEOPATHY CONFORMS TO NATURAL LAWS

There is no escape from the mandates of natural law.

When structures of the body are not normally adjusted the mechanism that Nature provides cannot work properly.

It is only natural that lowered resistance should follow such a condition, and that sickness should be the inevitable result.

When the body is sick—something is wrong with natural processes. The osteopathic physician proceeds toward restoring health by locating the structure that interferes with normal operation of the bodily mechanism and restores it by adjusting its correct relationship of part to part.

Once this has been accomplished natural processes are restored and natural law brings health again.

Osteopathy seeks to remove the fundamental causes of sickness by restoring normal adjustment.

DRINK HOT TEA FOR A BAD COLD

Get a small package of Hamburg Breast Tea at any pharmacy. Take a tablespoonful of the tea, put a cup of boiling water upon it, pour through a sieve and drink a teacup full at any time during the day or before retiring. It is the most effective way to break a cold and cure grip, as it opens the pores of the skin, relieving congestion. Also loosens the bowels, thus driving a cold from the system.

Try it the next time you suffer from a cold or the grip. It is inexpensive and entirely vegetable, therefore safe and harmless.

RUB BACKACHE AND LUMBAGO RIGHT OUT

Rub Pain and Stiffness away with a small bottle of old honest St. Jacobs Oil

When your back is sore and lame or lumbago, sciatica or rheumatism has you stiffened up, don't suffer! Get a 35 cent bottle of old, honest "St. Jacobs Oil" at any drug store, pour a little in your hand and rub it right into the pain or ache, and by the time you count fifty, the soreness and lameness is gone.

Don't stay crippled! This soothing, penetrating oil needs to be used only once. It takes the ache and pain right out of your back and ends the misery. It is magical, yet absolutely harmless and doesn't burn the skin.

*Nothing else stops lumbago, sciatica and lame back misery so promptly!

RED PEPPER FOR RHEUMATIC PAIN

Red Pepper Rub takes the "ouch" from sore, stiff, aching joints. It cannot hurt you, and it certainly stops that old rheumatism torture at once.

When you are suffering so you can hardly get around, just try Red Pepper Rub and you will have the quickest relief known. Nothing has such concentrated, penetrating heat as red peppers. Just as soon as you apply Red Pepper Rub you will feel the tingling heat. In three minutes it warms the sore spot through and through. Pain and soreness are gone.

Ask any good druggist for a jar of Rowles Red Pepper Rub. Be sure to get the genuine, with the name Rowles on each package.

SULPHUR SOOTHES UGLY, ITCHING SKIN

The First Application Makes Skin Cool and Comfortable

If you are suffering from eczema or some other torturing, embarrassing skin trouble you may quickly be rid of it by using Mentho-Sulphur, declares a noted skin specialist.

This sulphur preparation, because of its germ destroying properties, seldom fails to quickly subdue itching, even of very eczema. The first application makes the skin cool and comfortable. Rash and blotches are healed right up. Mentho-Sulphur is applied like any pleasant cold cream and is perfectly harmless. You can obtain a small jar from any good druggist.

FARMERS PICNIC BIG SUCCESS

The tenth annual picnic of the Farmers Picnic association, near Abbottstown, opened Thursday, with an attendance of 1,000, twice as large as the opening day last year. The 18 acres of land, which comprises the association's grounds, were filled with 75 agriculture, poultry, automobile and live stock exhibits, fakers and side shows. Due to the inclement weather Thursday night, the picnic was discontinued that night. Friday was politicians day upon the grounds. John A. McSparan, Democratic candidate for governor, was the principal speaker. J. Albert Gross, York, Democratic chairman of York county, was another speaker. Mr. McSparan was introduced by former Democratic Congressman George Benner, Gettysburg.

Friday saw a crowd of over 10,000 persons on the grounds. It is estimated that there were 2,000 automobiles on the grounds. The East Berlin band furnished music. The K. of P. band, Hanover, was the attraction on Saturday. Several state police were detailed to the grounds to assist in the handling of traffic.

Breaking all previous records, a crowd estimated at 15,000 attended the exhibition on Saturday. Fully 4000 autos were parked upon the grounds. Officers of the association claim this was the largest and best fair ever held. During the three days of the picnic over 125 persons exhibited on the grounds. Saturday afternoon the judging started, $500 being given in awards. The total attendance was approximately 30,000. The 11th exhibit will be held next August at a date yet to be decided. The grounds were enlarged for this year's picnic and it is planned to erect a pavilion and agriculture hall before next year.

About 100 members of the McIlheny and King families were present at the 12th annual reunion of these clans Saturday at the Great Conewago Kirk. Officers of the organization were re-elected unanimously and it was decided to hold another reunion at the same place next year. Mrs. Charles Knox was appointed to arrange the program.

At a recent meeting of the Gettysburg school board, the resignation of Miss Janet Myers was accepted, and A. B. Morganthall, of Waynesboro, was elected to fill the vacancy on the faculty of the high school. Miss Myers will finish a course in domestic arts at the U. of P.

FEED 1/2 AND 1/2

—to Help Your Hens Over the Moulting Season

Now is the time to prepare your hens for big egg production during the fall and winter months. Don't let them linger along from four to six months moulting. Get them through the moult QUICK, because a moulting hen is an expense instead of a producer. Every day counts and the feeding method you employ now determines the profits biddy will produce for you later on.

Try the FUL-O-PEP Way

The best known feeding method during the moulting season, is half FUL-O-PEP DRY MASH and half FUL-O-PEP GROWING MASH. Keep it before your hens all the time and you will be agreeably surprised how quickly they will finish moulting and be back on the nests, shelling out the eggs in large numbers.

FUL-O-PEP POULTRY FEEDS

enable poultry raisers to get results from poultry that at one time were considered impossible. Ful-O-Pep Growing Mash for growing birds enables you to produce big healthy, early laying pullets at less cost than any feed known. Keep it before the growing stock all the time—don't stop feeding it until pullets are six months old. Then feed Ful-O-Pep Dry Mash—the feed that makes more eggs all the year round. These feeds have opened the door of opportunity to poultry raisers. Poultrymen everywhere are getting real results from these guaranteed feeds. Feed the Ful-O-Pep Way and your success with poultry is assured.

The famous Ful-O-Pep line of poultry feeds was originated and is produced by The Quaker Oats Company, Address Chicago, U. S. A., the largest manufacturers of Poultry feed in the world.

THE SANDMAN STORY

WHICH WAS QUEEN?

MISS CORNSTALK grew very proud as the days went by and her silky hair floated over her pale green dress in the breeze.

"It is plain to me that I am the queen of the field," she said to the Pumpkin Vine, crawling on the ground nearby. "I feel sure that I was intended to be queen, else why should I be so much above all others around here?"

"We each play our part, I think," replied the lowly Pumpkin Vine. "My day has not come yet. I am sure when you behold me in my glory you will see that I am quite your equal, though I do not think I was made to be queen."

"I should say you were not," haughtily replied Miss Cornstalk, looking on Pumpkin Vine with scorn.

Pumpkin Vine Had a Pumpkin.

"And now that I think of it I wonder I even so far forgot my high station as to speak to you."

"A queen should speak only to her equals, and I wish you would not address me again, for I really cannot notice one so far beneath me."

Pumpkin Vine said something about kindness being the greatest virtue a queen could have, but Miss Cornstalk only shook her silken locks that they might glisten in the sunlight and held her head higher than ever as her green sash fluttered in the breeze.

But one day when Pumpkin Vine had forgotten all about the unkindness of haughty Miss Cornstalk, down fell something close beside her.

Pumpkin Vine now had a large yellow pumpkin of which any vine should have been proud, but she did not brag about its gold. She knew that other vines had golden pumpkins and that it was not the only beautiful thing in the world.

But what was it that lay on the ground beside her? Pumpkin Vine looked and there was Miss Cornstalk, proud and haughty no more, for her silken tresses were gone and her green sash and all that was left of her former glory was a long stalk with husks withered and dry.

By MARY MARSHALL DUFFEE

HOW TO EAT

CORN—Pick up the ear of boiled corn with one hand and eat it from the ear. This is in perfectly good form and is better than cutting the kernels from the ear at table.

Cherries—Lift the cherry by the stem to the mouth, and discard the pit into the right hand. Then lay it on the plate.

Baked Potatoes—Cut them lengthwise or crosswise on the dinner plate if they have not already been opened in the kitchen. Take the morsels of potato from the open skin with the fork. Do not expedite this by squeezing the skin with the fingers. If you like to eat the skin cut the potato with the skin on with the knife and fork. Never scrape the skin with the side of the fork to get the last morsel.

Berries—All should be eaten with a fork or spoon excepting strawberries which, if they are served with the hulls on, are raised to the mouth by means of the hull and bitten off.

Lobster in the Shell—It is necessary and quite all right to pull such sea food apart with the fingers and such things as shrimps may even be separated and peeled with the fingers. However great daintiness should be exercised in doing this and one should take care not to put the fingers to the mouth or to eat the fish with the fingers. The fork should be used to convey it to the mouth though the fingers may be used in separating the parts of the fish.

"What's in a Name?"

By MILDRED MARSHALL

FACTS about your name; its history; meaning; whence it was derived; significance; your lucky day and lucky jewel

MILDRED

MILDRED is something of a holy name, since it has a heritage closely associated with religious orders. Though said to be of Teutonic origin, it was exclusively Saxon in its early use; indeed it may be said to be almost Merclan, since its first appearance was in the family of King Merowald.

Mild was a Saxon word meaning "mild", and by the addition of "thyth", another Saxon term signifying "command", the feminine name Mildthyth was formed. Because it was translated to mean "mild speech," it was much used as a name for gentle damsels with religious inclinations.

King Merowald had three daughters whom he named Mildgyth, Mildburgh, and Mildthyth—thus employing all versions of the name then in use. All three became nuns of a holy order. The two latter were later abbesses, one in Shropshire, the other in the Isle of Thanet. They were finally canonized in recognition of their saintly lives, as Mildburgh and Mildreda.

Thus Mildred, Mildrid, or Mildreda (as you prefer) came into existence and straightway won great popularity in Shropshire and, later, throughout all England. Germany adopted Mildred, but it has never had definite vogue there in spite of its supposed Teutonic origin. The consonants were too harsh for France and Spain, though the latter occasionally employs Mildreda, accenting only the vowels in the soft Latin manner.

Mildred was the name given to the famous daughter of Bureleigh and through her, its place among English maids was forever assured. Recently it was revived to even greater vogue in England and America and etymologists claim that the record of babies christened by that name in late years, would be astounding and unbelievable.

The emerald is Mildred's talismanic

gem. It is said to promise her a keen intellect, charm, and success in affairs of the heart. The hawthorne, signifying hope, is her flower. Wednesday is her lucky day and three her lucky number.

THE ROMANCE OF WORDS

"BOARD"

THE resources of a language for the expression of thought are frequently increased by attributing to the same word a number of different meanings. Thus we have, "post"—from the Latin pono, "I place"—showing up in such words as "postage," "post-haste," "post-office" and the like, while "head" and "court" are others of the same type. But, of all these, the most interesting is "board," originally connected with "broad" and applied to that form of timber which is characterized by its breadth rather than its thickness.

Several boards manifestly go to make up a table but, in the old days, a single plank, rather flimsily supported, was sufficient for this purpose. We, therefore, have the use of the word in the sense of the table itself—the "festive board"—and also the meals, "board and lodging." The significance of the table is also apparent in the use of the word in such titles as Board of Trade, Board of Commerce and the like—all of these bodies meeting around or sitting beside a table. Again, "board" is specifically used to denote the plank covering of a vessel, and in this sense, gives rise to a new group of phrases, of which "aboard" and "above-board" are typical. The paper-board, too, has its technical uses for the term. To him it signifies the stiffest and thickest—the most board-like—of his products, and "card-board" is the result.

YOUR HAND

How to Read Your Characteristics and Tendencies—the Capabilities or Weaknesses That Make for Success or Failure as Shown in Your Palm

A BUSINESS PERSON'S HAND

AS SHREWDSNESS and caution are necessary to the business man or woman, in order to help in success, the line of life and the line of the head should be joined above the thumb. The line of the head must be strong, as brain power is required in great measure in struggling for success in business. Therefore, the line of the head should be clear and well-marked, and should extend right across the hand.

Of course, good fortune is necessary in business, and this is indicated by a strong line of fortune having its rise in the line of life and running toward or into the finger of Mercury, or little finger. If, in addition, there is a strong, short line on the mount of Mercury, it is also a very good sign of fortune in business.

The Big Muskeg

By VICTOR ROUSSEAU

Copyright by STEWART KIDD COMPANY

THE WIDOW

SYNOPSIS.—Looking over Big Muskeg, a seemingly impassable swamp in the path of the Mississibi railroad, Joe Bostock, builder of the line, and Wilton Carruthers, chief of engineers, are considering the difficulties. A rifle shot instantly kills Bostock and breaks Carruthers' arm. Carruthers tries to carry the body to a post of the Hudson's Bay company, where McDonald is the factor. McDonald's daughter, Molly, sees Carruthers struggling in the muskeg and drags him from the swamp, with his burden. Unaccountably, her father objects to her saving Carruthers. Weakened by his wound and exertions, Carruthers is disturbed by the appearance of Tom Bowyer, Bostock's business rival and personal enemy. Bowyer insults Molly, and Carruthers strikes him. Carruthers declares his love for Molly. She promises to be his wife. Carruthers has to reach the town of Clayton to attend a meeting at which Bostock's enemies plan to wrest control of the Mississibi from him. Molly goes with him. They are delayed by a storm. Attacked by his dogs, Carruthers' life is saved by Molly, who is forced to kill the animals. "The snow, the snow!" They set out on foot for Clayton, reaching it with Carruthers in an almost dying condition. He is in time to foil Bostock's enemies and keep control of the line for Mrs. Bostock. He finds enemies at work on Big Muskeg. Bowyer persecutes Molly with attentions.

CHAPTER VII

Inside Information.

Wilton's first act on reaching the shack was to write a letter to Inspector Quain, informing him of the presence of Hackett and Tongway at the camp, and telling him of their liquor-vending activities. In the morning he sent for Andersen, who appeared disheveled, humble, and repentant.

"I thank you send me back to the cache—" the foreman began.

Wilton struck his fist on his desk. "No, Andersen, I'm not going to send you back to the cache," he answered. "You'll hold your job, and you'll keep the men under control and see that there's no more whisky-peddling around here."

"By Jink, Mr. Carruthers, you yoozt bet I will!" cried the Swede. "I done all I could to drive them two fallers away from here. Last night I took one drink, thinking I'd get the men away quietly, and then—I guess I don't remember no more," he ended apologetically.

"If you see them around here again, or hear of them, you'll let me know at once," said Wilton. "That's all, Andersen. Just try to live up to your job; I don't expect impossibilities. And tell the men I want to see them at ten o'clock."

At that hour he went out to inspect the laborers, who were lined up outside the cook-house. They were a dirty, disheveled lot, still showing the traces of the last night's dissipation. Wilton looked at them grimly. "Well, men, we've met one another already," he said. "I'm your new boss. You've had a taste of me, and you've seen something of my methods. I expect my workers to make good, and I expect to make good myself. And if any man brings liquor into camp, or sets himself across the portage without my permission, I'll make him so that his mother wouldn't recognize him. Those of you who are dissatisfied can take your pay and go."

He went back to his shack. Digby, who had stood thoughtfully beside him during this colloquy, came in after him.

"There must be quite a considerable amount of this sort of thing, Mr. Carruthers," he inquired.

"What do you mean by 'this sort of thing'?" demanded Wilton sharply.

"Where'd you serve it?"

"That is a problem," admitted Digby. "I've thought over that. But—this sort of thing wasn't what I signed on for. That's all there is to it. If you'd told me what was expected of me, I might have signed with you or I might not. I'd have thought about it. I object to my rights being invaded. So I wish to offer my resignation."

"All right," said Wilton shortly. Then, feeling that the other had a sort of justice in his attitude: "It is rather tough to expect you to do police work," he acknowledged. "But I don't think there will be any more of it."

Digby looked at him in frank astonishment. "Why, I like it!" he said. "I had the time of my life last night. It's simply the principle of the thing. But I'm afraid I didn't quite make my position clear."

"Not altogether," answered Wilton. "However, I'm sending some special mail down this noon, and you can go in with the sleigh."

Digby's defection was a serious blow, for it would be necessary to make arrangements for a man to take his place. However, Wilton decided to take no steps to that end immediately. He inspected the camp, saw that a good job was being made of the cleaning up, and went to look at Kitty's house.

This was built substantially of logs, and had already been half completed. It consisted of four rooms and an out-kitchen, and stood at the edge of the new road near the ridge, about five hundred yards from the nearest bunk-house.

That afternoon he made his first examination of the Muskeg. He took soundings in several places, but the peat seemed bottomless. Nowhere could he reach rock bottom, except within a few feet of the shore.

The underlying bed of peat was everywhere. He went two or three miles up and down the stream without discovering any way of bridging the Muskeg.

He was too busy now to see Molly more than an hour daily, but he always went to the portage for a short visit after supper.

The factor, who had learned to expect his coming at the same hour each day, withdrew upstairs before he arrived. Once or twice, when they came face to face, he turned his head away in sullen anger.

As a prospective father-in-law, McDonald seemed about as hopeless a proposition as could be conceived, but the time to consider his own and Molly's future would not come until the line was on its feet. Big Muskeg was the giant in the way. Often Wilton, staring down at its sullen depths from the top of the ridge, would feel it as a personal enemy, defying him to overcome it.

One evening Wilton was sitting in his shack, utterly disconsolate. He had sounded nearly every possible place without result, and even Molly had failed to cheer him. He saw no alternative before him except to return to Clayton and confess himself beaten.

Andersen tapped at the door and said that a man wanted to see him. Wilton rose up and, to his surprise, admitted Lee Chambers.

The engineer was roughly dressed and wretched-looking. He told Wilton that he had tramped in from Cold Junction, thirty miles southwestward, the present terminal point of the New Northern.

"I thought maybe you would give me a job," he said. "I've left Mr. Bowyer for good. We had some trouble. He wanted me to make a crooked report, and I would not do it. I'm through with him and his dirty schemes."

Wilton gave him a chair and looked him over coldly. He did not like Chambers, and he suspected that he was lying, and that Bowyer had sent him to him for his own purposes.

Digby's disappearance had left him in a hole, but that hardly justified his taking on Lee Chambers, though he was one of the ablest of his profession in Manitoba.

"Well, Mr. Chambers," he said, "I'm carrying on my work here on the lines established by Mr. Bostock. Joe Bostock had two maxims. The first was: 'Never lay off a man if you can help it.' The second was: 'Never take on a man who's left you.' And to be quite frank—I feel about the same way. You left the Mississibi, which had treated you well, and we have reason to believe you gave useful information to Mr. Bowyer."

"I swear I didn't!" shouted Chambers, springing to his feet. "Prove that, Mr. Carruthers!"

"I can't prove it," Wilton admitted. "I am giving you my personal feeling about yourself, in confidence."

"Well, it's a mighty poor sort of confidence," spluttered the engineer. "See here, Mr. Carruthers. I didn't come here to beg you for a job. I want one, and I can get one on any other line in Manitoba. But I want to even things out a little with Tom Bowyer first. He's played me a dirty trick, and I don't take things lying down. I know what your problem is. I know you can't cross Big Muskeg. Suppose I show you, eh? How'd you feel about it then?"

Wilton's cool glance never wavered. "I'm willing to hear more on the subject, Mr. Chambers," he said.

"Right! Before you'd even started to clear the bush I was up here sounding every yard of Big Muskeg clear along both shores. And there's rock bottom within two miles of here. Does that interest you, Mr. Carruthers?"

"It does," said Wilton frankly. "If I show you—"

"I need an assistant, and you can have the position as long as you want it."

Lee Chambers grinned. "That's good enough for me," he said. "I'll hold it right along. There won't be any other road would have much use for me after Tom Bowyer finds out what I've done to him."

In Her Widow's Black She Looked Prettier Than Ever.

Wilton gave Chambers a bed in his shack. The next morning they started out to sound the muskeg. A little more than a mile north of the portage, where the river dwindled to a mere trickle between two lakes in summer, was an uninviting bed of peat, covered with rotten slush; it was one of the few spots where Wilton had not sounded.

"You'll get bottom here," said Chambers. He swept his arm upward. "You see, I've figured it out like this: Those ridges are limestone. But the foundation's granite. You've noticed that, of course. The granite was there first. The limestone was forced up later through the clefts by subterranean action. It filled up the holes and hollows and spread up above the granite till these bluffs were formed. But the granite hasn't shifted. Here's where the granite bed extends across the muskeg. The mud filled up the cleft and spread across the foundation. But the foundation's there. Try her out!"

Wilton got bottom after two or three attempts. As Chambers had said, here was the foundation for the permanent way—not the best conceivable, and one that would require considerable ballasting, but undeniably the only route possible.

The next day preparations were begun for cutting the new road from the camp. The weeks passed swiftly. With mid-April came the breaking up of the ice. The ground hardened, and the first team of horses struggled into camp, drawing its freight.

The end of April saw Kitty's house completed and the furniture installed, and the first day of May brought Kitty.

She had telephoned Wilton to expect her, and she came in a rig, with a cartload of trunks and packages behind. Within an hour she was ensconced snugly in the new cottage, with a camp cook detailed to look after her needs. In her widow's black she looked prettier than ever, and absurdly young even to be married.

Wilton had supper with her, and all the while they sat together at the table his heart was almost too full for speech. He was dreaming of the future with Molly, a future in which Kitty shared. He pictured her happily married—for Joe would have wished that, and Wilton's loyalty to the dead man had nothing mawkish or sentimental in it.

Kitty tapped him on the arm, and he looked up to see her face in a charming smile, and mirth dancing in her blue eyes.

"What are you thinking of, Wilton?" she asked.

"Kitty," he said, evading her question, "I think you are the luckiest woman in the world."

"Why, Wilton?"

"To come up here and put up with these hardships, just because of Joe."

She blushed faintly and lowered her eyes. "It was you who let me come, Wilton," she said.

"But you wanted to come because Joe would have liked it, Kitty. It's like you to hide your real feeling."

She laughed and made a little face at him. But after supper she grew serious as he spoke of the work and his success, about which he had written her.

Wilton asked her if she would walk over to the portage to see Molly. "Tonight?" she asked doubtfully. "Not if you're tired, Kitty."

"I thought you might be content to sit here and chat."

"I should be, Kitty. But I told her I was coming. And I said I had a surprise for her. Can't you imagine how pleased she'll be to see you?"

"Why, of course I'll come with you, Wilton," she answered.

And they strolled down side by side and made their way to the trading-store. They went in and, at the sound of their entrance, Molly came running downstairs, stopped short at the bottom and stared at Kitty as if she had seen a ghost. She put her hand to her heart with a sudden gesture of fear.

"Molly, this is the surprise I promised you," said Wilton. "What's the matter, dear? Did we startle you?"

Molly shook her head and came quickly forward, swallowing as if something was choking her. The women kissed each other. Then Wilton was aware that both were watching him.

All through the lively chat that followed he was conscious of that. He put the idea out of his mind with an effort, for he did not like subtleties of feeling that he could not understand. Yet there was a chilliness under the girls' chatter and laughter.

Presently Kitty said she was tired and must get back. Molly promised to come to see her as soon as possible.

Wilton and Kitty hardly spoke on the way home. When he left her at her door she turned to him and asked abruptly:

"Will you are still as deeply in love with Molly as ever aren't you?"

"Of course I am, Kitty," he answered.

"Then I am glad, for your sake and hers," answered Kitty, and went quickly into the house.

Wilton walked back to his shack, a little puzzled. He had arranged to show Kitty the progress of the work on the following morning; but when he called for her he found her in the midst of her unpacking, and she put it off until the afternoon. Wilton laughed, chided her and went to his work.

She kept him waiting till three o'clock, when they started. He felt the pride of the artist as he led Kitty from one place to another. Locomotives were snorting, and lines of ballast trucks occupied the narrow-gage that had been laid down to the water's edge.

In the ballast pit, from which the screech of steam was heard from morn till night, the great, unwieldy steam-shovel scraped its huge steel teeth into the face of the cut with the scurrying of an ogre's feet, and, turning, disgorged its plunder into the empty trucks alongside.

Kitty shuddered and pressed Wilton's arm. "It's like—it's like some living monster, Wilton," she said. "Let's go on."

He led her toward the muskeg. But on the way he stopped suddenly beside the summit of the ridge.

"Kitty," he said, in a low voice, "I don't know if I ought to tell you—perhaps you'd like to know. This is where Joe—"

Her grasp upon his arm tightened convulsively. "No, no, Wilton," she said hurriedly. "I don't want to see it. I can't bear to think of it."

They followed the line of ballast trucks along the narrow gage down to the swamp's edge. Construction upon the foundations was well under way. Tons of debris had been poured into the muskeg, and had simply spread themselves over the bottom, finding their level like water. Soundings taken had showed the bedrock hardly raised from its level twenty feet beneath the surface.

Wilton and Lee Chambers had therefore begun the construction of trestle-work. Teams hauled bundles of logs, bound with a chain, to the scene of operations. The uprights for the lower tier were driven into the ground, and the horizontal members and diagonals were nailed up, completing a crazy, shaking structure just strong enough to take a pair of metals at the top.

As they reached the edge of this structure the whistle blew. The workmen knocked off and came slowly past them toward the camp. Wilton and Kitty stood alone at the edge of the embankment, where the flimsy structure of the trestle began.

Kitty looked at Wilton breathlessly. "It's wonderful, Wilton!" she said. "It makes me feel so out of place and useless."

Wilton looked at her in surprise. "Why, how can you feel that way, Kitty?" he asked reproachfully. "You have been loyal to the core to Joe!"

"Don't say that!" she cried fiercely, and, turning swiftly from him, began to make her passage across the temporary sleepers. Twelve feet beneath them the sluggish stream forced its narrow channel through the muskeg. Wilton called to Kitty.

"You'd better come back," he shouted. "It isn't very secure, and you might lose your footing."

"Ye go too far, Mr. Bowyer!" he quavered. "Ye canna insult my girl in my own house!"

NEW LIGHT WOOL

Material of Crepe Weave Used for Hand-Made Dresses.

Novelty is Lighter in Weight Than Many Crepe De Chines and Suitable for Gowns.

The styles brought out at this time of the year in a very large measure predate the fashions of the coming autumn. Women have proved that their tastes in dress are simple, for out of the multitude of ideas constantly launched, and many of them pushed to the utmost, those embodying simplicity invariably take a firm hold. The greatest successes known in the history of dressmaking have been made in recent years by designers who worked along these lines. Those who have eschewed complication and held to an almost stern simplicity have been the ones whose models have had the greatest vitality and endurance.

No stronger current has run through the stream of fashions during the last few years than the Vionnet genre or type of dress, asserts a writer in the New York Tribune. It never can be said of Vionnet's models that they definitely date themselves, as do most fashions that rage for a time. They are beautiful, artistic and becoming, and no one can deny that they are enduring. Women who have become accustomed to this type of dress continue from season to season to have a similar thing, and often, in ordering a model, have the same style copied two or three times, the only difference being in the color.

In materials, crepe de chine and crepe romaine are still favorites, but they have a new ally in a very lightweight wool material of crepe weave, which is now being used for hand-made dresses of the sort that have been so popular in crepe de chine, voile and handkerchief linen. These

BLACK CREPE FOR DRESSES

All-Around Satisfactory Color Holds Favor With Many Women for Luncheon Time.

Many of the dresses seen at luncheon time are made of black crepe, for there is a certain portion of the population which never seems to care to desert that all-around and satisfactory color. These frocks are invariably long, and almost always they have some sort of draping at one side of the skirt, which has a way of hanging much below the hem of the dress which, to begin with, is long enough to strike the ankles. Then this sort of frock you will find being worn with hats that are extremely large of brim, with little trimming, but with a great deal of line, which helps them to add materially to the grace of the costume as it originally existed.

Some frocks of foulard stand very high among those that are fashionable. They are especially those made of black and white or dark blue and white prints when they are made along formal lines. They, too, are draped, with the exception of a few little bits of lace used just as edging that are left to show their patterns quite unintercepted. One of these was of a black and white print, the design being of conventional roses in white that twined over the fabric in sprays. The skirt was so intricately draped that it was hard to tell exactly what the scheme of its design was founded upon, and the bodice, quite tightly fitted, had a square neck to carry out the lines upon which the frock was founded. With this was worn a white transparent straw hat

NO MATTER HOW HOT THE DAY

Many New York women have effectively thrown aside black and dull colors and appear in laces, chiffon—the delicacies of fashion. This gown is a combination of peach-colored taffeta, delicate lace and embroidery representing each flower that blooms in the garden.

show drawn work and Venetian ladder embroidery.

It seems a contrariety that dress-makers should manifest so strong an interest in woolen materials at a season of the year when the mercury stands at its highest, but this novelty woolen is lighter in weight than many crepe de chine and is particularly suitable for dresses being made up at this time. It makes delightful frocks for the mountains or seashore, and models made from this fine wool crepe need not be packed away for another season when one comes back to town, but will be found very serviceable throughout the autumn and winter.

GOWNS FOR THE STOUT BRIDE

Care Should Be Taken to Avoid Boldly Overdressing; Long, Unbroken Lines Suitable.

There are stout brides to be dressed as well as slim ones and for them are suggested panels, long, unbroken lines or fine draperies that fall with a certain weight, but never should a plump figure call attention to itself by overdressing or by trying to follow some fashion, charming in itself, perhaps, but only adapted to the unusually tall and thin.

Sometimes, by boldly exaggerating curves, one can make them appear actually less as, for example, in the full petticoats of the time of Louis XVI, when a full hip was well disguised and a waist, however ample, appeared small in comparison.

Frilled Blouses. Not in many a season has the white frilled blouse enjoyed such favor as now. Fillet and Irish lace are the accepted trimmings.

Separate Outing Coat. Black velvet worked in white worsted and a white tub flannel skirt are a chic combination for sports and country wear.

trimmed with one large swooping bow of white moire ribbon across one side of the brim. A black chantilly lace veil dropped over the brim and to the shoulders, and the earrings were made of long strings of white pearls.

The linen street suits are only just beginning to appear. And this season they are done in the shape of the very simplest of little frocks. There are very few coats and skirts of that tailored type which linen used so often to be. But the linen dresses follow those bright colors that the tweeds established, and then they are kept to the coat-dress type, with large sleeves and big pearl buttons, and shawl or apricot collars to add distinction to their cut and make.

Favored Shade. Pale yellow georgette over white, the georgette embroidered with white soutache braid, is one of the popular combinations of the moment. The yellow is not so deep as the dent de lion of early spring nor yet so faint as the semi-ivory. It is more a lemon yellow, refreshing and summery in appearance, and looking its best when contrasted with clear white. With these gowns, which are usually made of organdie, go hats in the same shade, of crinoline trimmed with faded silk sunflowers in a deeper tone.

Plaits Everywhere. Plaited bands, plaited insets and plaited panels are noted frequently in the importations, both in silk and cloth models. Paton extracts infinite charm from the simple frock of flannel-crepe romaine crepe inset with narrow bands of plaited ribbons in self-color.

"By Jink, Mr. Carruthers, You Yoozt Bet I Will!" Cried the Swede.

his—across the portage without my permission, I'll make him so that his mother wouldn't recognize him. Those of you who are dissatisfied can take your pay and go."

He went back to his shack. Digby, who had stood thoughtfully beside him during this colloquy, came in after him.

"There must be quite a considerable amount of this sort of thing, Mr. Carruthers," he inquired.

"What do you mean by 'this sort of thing'?" demanded Wilton sharply.

MARRIAGES

Wm. Sadler and Miss Mary E. Miller, both of Gettysburg, were married at Westminster on Monday week. The groom is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Murray Sadler, formerly of New Oxford.

A double wedding ceremony took place Thursday morning, when at a nuptial mass in the Church of the Holy Name at Camden, N. J., four young people of McSherrytown were the principals. Rev. Fr. T. Whalen, was celebrant of the mass. The contracting parties were Miss Norine Buntz, who was married to Charles C. Busbey, and her sister, Miss Annie Buntz, who became the bride of Harry Dougherty. The brides are daughters of Thomas C. Buntz; Mr. Busbey is a son of Mr. and Mrs. John L. Busbey and Mr. Dougherty a son of John L. Dougherty, all of McSherrytown.

Reed M. Schmuck, eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. E. R. Schmuck, and Miss Alice E. Cover, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Sam. Cover, Hanover, were married Friday in the parsonage of Trinity Reformed church, by Rev. Dr. M. J. Roth. Mr. Schmuck is connected with the Walter H. Bernitz Company.

John L. Getz, York, and Miss Goldie M. Barbehenn, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Barbehenn, of Glenville, were married in Harrisburg on Monday week by the Rev. Baldwin. Her father was a native of Gettysburg.

Charles W. Rutschky, Jr., of Pottstown, and Miss Isabelle G. Knouse, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John A. Knouse, of Arden, were married at the home of Rev. L. O. Carbaugh at Apollo.

George L. Haring, of New Cumberland, and Miss Esther E. Minter, a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John C. Minter, of Biglerville, were married at New Cumberland on Saturday by the Rev. C. H. Helges.

Miss Mabel M. Tresler, of Alice, Orti, and J. C. Matney, of Echo, Opa., were married on July 3. Mrs. Matney's parents were former residents of Adams county. They moved to the West 21 years ago.

The home of Mrs. Charlotte Kelms, Columbia, was the scene of a wedding on Saturday morning, when her daughter, Miss Frances Kelms, was united in marriage with Guy G. Bruner, of Harrisburg, son of P. M. Bruner, prop. of the City Hotel, Gettysburg. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. J. M. Shelly, M. E. pastor.

At the Mohlenberg Lutheran parsonage, Spring Grove, on Saturday evening, Alvin Rudisill and Mabel Laughman, both of Jackson township, were married. They will reside on H. H. Loose and son fruit farm.

THE SICK.

Hugh Rebert, son of Mr. and Mrs. Quintin Rebert, White Hall, is suffering from diphtheria.

Mrs. M. A. L. Trostle, White Hall, has been on the sick list.

John Deardorff, Center Mills, who has been critically ill, is improved.

L. C. Pittenturf, York Springs, has been on the sick list for a few days.

Miss Etta Brindle, Mummansburg, has been suffering with inflammatory rheumatism.

Rev. Dr. Lindaman, pastor of Christ Reformed church, is afflicted with a nervous breakdown.

Reuben Roth has been seriously ill at his home in Biglerville.

REAL ESTATE SALES

Edward McGuigan, of near White Hall, has sold his farm, stock, farming implements and household goods to Edward Bowers, Philadelphia, who has taken possession and moved his family there on Monday. Mr. McGuigan will make his home with his daughter in York.

Robt. E. Leppo and wife to Charles H. Warner and wife, a property in Hanover.

Harris Brothers have purchased from Dr. H. L. Diehl the store and residence property in Gettysburg. The consideration was reported as $20,000. The purchase includes the store room now occupied by Harris Brothers, the office of Dr. Diehl and apartment upstairs. Possession will be given April 1st. Harris Brothers propose to extend the store room to the alley.

The farm of D. C. Shanebrook, near Two Taverns, consisting of 190 acres, which was offered at public sale on Saturday, was withdrawn at a bid of $50 per acre. Only a few bidders were present.

The public sale of the property of Charles Wolf, Littlestown, was not held on Saturday as advertised, the property being sold on Friday to Mrs. Edith Redding, of Gettysburg, at private sale. Possession Sept. 1st.

The Manahan farm along the Gettysburg-Hunterstown road was recently sold to M. Hartzell, of the State Highway Department.

John J. Tawney has sold to Wm. F. Hemler a 61-foot lot in Gettysburg. Mr. Hemler has broken ground for the erection of three frame dwellings on the lot.

Radford Lippy has purchased a lot in Gettysburg on which he expects to erect a modern dwelling next spring.

E. P. Miller has purchased the Wm. McClellan property in Gettysburg.

The farm owned by Earl Stuller, along the Gettysburg-Emmitsburg road was sold to Jas. A. Kime, Gettysburg. The house owned by Mr. Kime was sold to Samuel L. Null, of Gettysburg. Mr. Stuller moved to York, Friday, Mr. Kime taking possession of the Stuller farm at once.

A SAFE TEST

For those who are in need of a remedy for kidney troubles and backache, it is a good plan to try Doan's Kidney Pills. They are strongly recommended by people in this vicinity.

Robert J. Cook, 245 N. Stratton St., Gettysburg, Pa., says: "My kidneys got out of fix. I felt mighty lame in the small of my back mornings and when I tried to bend sharp, stinging pains ran through my back. When I went to lift anything a pain cut me in my back which felt as if it were pulling me down. My kidneys seemed congested and were inactive. Doan's Kidney Pills had been used in my family so I got some. They went right the trouble and fixed me up and put my kidneys in good condition again."

MARRIAGE LICENSES

Lloyd Clouser and Hilda E. Frock, Hanover, at Westminster.

Dr. Willis Lau, of near Abbottstown, preached in the local M. E. church on Sunday morning.

MONEY BACK, SALESMAN FREED

The charges of false pretense and conspiracy with attempt to cheat and defraud, which were entered by E. B. Swope, A. M. Moore, C. J. Weaver and Edgar Wesmer, of Gettysburg, against Wm. Schlein, alleged stock salesman of the Cragger Systems, of New York, were withdrawn on Saturday after restitution of the money involved had been made and the defendant was discharged. These charges were preferred against Schlein as the outcome of certain stock transactions, in which it was said that Mr. Swope was involved to the extent of $3,000, Mr. Moore had given securities to the amount of $1,800, C. J. Weaver $4,500 and Edgar Wesmer $800, making a total of $9,900. Schlein was held in $12,500 bail by Justice Hill at a hearing on Wednesday. Shortly after Schlein was discharged by the Gettysburg authorities on Saturday, a warrant was sent there from York county for his arrest on a similar charge. However, the warrant could not be served. It is said that as soon as released from the custody of the sheriff, he was seen to motor in the direction of the Maryland state line.

60,000 LBS. OF WIRE NEEDED

Work of building the new transmission line thru New Oxford to Gettysburg is being rushed by the Hanover Power Co., so that the line may be completed within 6 months. The line will carry 13,000 volts and will require 60,000 lbs. of wire and 500 poles. Below the high voltage line there will be a line carrying 2,300 volts to serve patrons between New Oxford and Gettysburg. The cost of this line will be charged to customers, exclusive of poles, but this cost, according to officials of the company, will be less than installing a local lighting plant. It will, of course, deliver 24-hour service. Several hundred thousand dollars are being spent now on the company's plant at Hanover and its lines.

STATE'S OLDEST HARNESS MAKER

John Deeter, York, is probably the oldest harness maker actively engaged in the trade in that city. He has been employed in the shop of Noah C. May, (formerly of Hanover), for a period of 35 years. This is the only job Mr. Deeter has held since coming to this city in 1887, from New Oxford, where he learned the trade of harness making. Mr. Deeter says that when he first came to York there were 13 saddle shops throughout the city; now there are but 3. Mr. Deeter is 56 years old, looks to be about 40 and works like a youngster of 21. —York Dispatch.

LABOR DAY MATINEE RACES

The annual Labor Day matinee races will be held at Grist Park, York Springs, Monday. This will be the last event of the season at the park and a record-breaking crowd is expected to be present. There will be various amusements during the day. At 1 o'clock there will be a good ball game. There will be four classes of horses entered for the matinee races to be held that afternoon, free-for-all, 2:40 trot, 2:35 pace and mixed. A good band has been engaged to occupy the quarter stretch, and as usual the orchestra will be on the stage in front of the grandstand.

The "concealed value" in good clothes doesn't stay concealed. It reveals itself day after day as you wear a suit. It's the thing that keeps the style fresh—and keeps your satisfaction fresh, too.

The difference in price is small between clothes that are good and clothes that are not so good. It's a fact worth remembering when you pick out your next suit.

Society Brand Sports Clothes, with trousers and knickers, are practical for business, too.

IN AND ABOUT TOWN

Town Council will meet in regular session on Friday evening.

Stough & Hemler are repainting the residence of Geo. A. Moore on West High street.

The meeting of the New Oxford C. of C. scheduled for Aug. 23d was postponed to last evening.

Elwood Swartz Myers and Harvey Bollinger, of town, will again attend Gettysburg college this fall.

Mrs. F. X. Billman, North Peters street, raised a tomato in her garden which weighed 3 lbs., 6 ozs. Who can beat it?

Ruth Miller, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Miller, West High street, is recovering from a severe attack of tonsillitis.

Mrs. H. D. Becker, formerly of New Oxford, is directing the canvass for the sale of tickets in the coming Hanover Y. M. C. A. musical entertainment course.

Another old-time square dance will be held in Milhimes' grove, midway between New Chester and Hunters-town, on Labor Day evening, while the next racing matinee will be held there on Sept. 16th.

Warehouses in New Oxford Friday quoted 90 cents a bushel for wheat, the lowest price reached for a long time. It is said that farmers find more profit in 50 cent potatoes than 90 cent wheat.

Andrew Little, admr. of the estate of the late Basil L. Little, purchased at public sale on Saturday the 50-acre farm of the decedent situated near farm of the decedent, situated near Bonneville, for $2700.

Due to the turning off of power to this place on Saturday afternoon without warning, the Nat. Pump & Mfg. Co. was forced to drop the cupola in the middle of a heat, thereby causing several hundred dollars' loss.

The train known as the "Pen-Mar Express", leaving here on Sunday at 9:14 a. m., 8:18 p. m., will be cancelled after Sept. 3rd. For the first time in many years there will be no change on this road from summer to winter schedule.

Miss Geraldine Cashman, of West High street, will enter the Gettysburg High School Sept. 4th. As usual, a large number of pupils from this section will enter the Hanover High school next week. Transportation problems have been causing considerable trouble.

Jos. I. Weaver, Poplar street, has received word that his grandfather, the venerable Philip Fleigle, a former well known lime burner of Mt. Rock, is still living, at the age of 81 years, at Morrisville, Ill. Mr. Fleigle and brother, Nicholas, graded New Oxford many years ago.

G. C. Sheely, surviving executor of the will of the late A. Sheely, will sell at public sale on Saturday, Sept. 23rd, the property on West High street, occupied by the late Chas. Sheely. Also the same time and place Chas. Sheely will sell a lot of personal property. Watch for adv. and posters.

The advancement of the Y. Springs high school from a 2 to a 3-year school leaves but three 2-year schools in Adams county, they being located at New Oxford, E. Berlin, and Abbottstown. With Hanover contemplating the exclusion of outside pupils in 1923, it appears that these three towns and surrounding townships will have to get together at once to devise ways and means for erecting a central high school.

Fortunate discovery by Paul D. Weaver of fire at the Nat. Pump & Mfg. Co. plant on Hanover street on Saturday evening prevented that building from being probably totally destroyed. Mr. Weaver, who was sitting on his porch noticed smoke issuing from the building. Mr. Weaver, H. S. Sheets, Pius Smith and J. B. Weaver extinguished the blaze with buckets of water. The fire caught at the core oven. Damage slight.

Beginning Sunday, all local garages will be closed every Sunday from 12 noon to 5 p. m. It has been suggested that the garages here should alternate in keeping open until toward noon on Sunday is a big day for auto traffic and emergency calls will naturally have to be sent to surrounding towns, thereby putting New Oxford in a "dead" light to the motoring public.

In line with his policy to give frequenters of the dances at Cafe Dicks the best music possible, C. T. Myers, prop., has secured the Mannix Dance Orchestra, of Harrisburg, for a big special dance on Sept. 3rd. This is said to be one of Pennsylvania's best orchestras, and all music lovers are urged to be present for their concert. On Labor Day evening the Blue & White Marimba orchestra, of York, will play a return engagement, and on Wednesday evening Sponsler's Syncopated Sextette will play.

One wouldn't think Harry Lough a bad sort of a fellow to get along with. And yet Sanders' Lizzie truck and he seem to have had some difficulties recently. On Saturday, while Harry was delivering some groceries at Eli Wolfe's on Lincoln Way, West, Lizzie fondled then was her chance to vacillate and vanquish she did! If it hadn't been for the high bank in front of Nathaniel Miller's property the "old girl" would probably be going yet. Fortunately the new Reformed preacher was not in the vicinity to hear what Harry said on emerging from Wolfe's yard. It is said Nathaniel Miller had to take an hour off rounding up his youngsters who scattered to the four winds when the driverless Ford tried to scale the bank.

Phoning to town for a supply of neckties to sport around the Farmers' picnic, near Abbottstown, last week, "Cutey" Wolf, of the New Oxford Garage, got cold feet before the second day had passed and decided there was no place like home, incidentally losing the ties in his endeavor to get back to the old garage. His buddy, "Dodge" Miller, didn't even last a day at the picnic, declaring rain and he had fallen out some years ago.

SELECTING JURY TO TRY

NURSE FOR BABY'S MURDER

With full panel examined and only 3 jurors accepted in the trial of Helen Geiselman, charged with the murder of her infant, Adams county court Tuesday afternoon took a recess until morning in order to give Sheriff Hartman a chance to summon 70 men from whom other jurors are to be obtained. All of the morning session was taken up with the examination of jurors. With but few exceptions the men examined claimed either that they had formed an opinion regarding the guilt or innocence of the defendant, or that they had conscientious scruples against capital punishment. Tuesday afternoon after the regular panel had been exhausted the Sheriff started calling men from the audience in the court room and one more juror was obtained in this way.

The three jurors selected temporarily on Tuesday morning were Chas. E. Ditzler, Franklin township; Jos. H. Hemler, of McSherrystown, and John A. Cease, of Hamiltonban township.

The dismissed veniremen each received $6 for his two days' service.

When court reconvened yesterday morning, Sheriff Hartman had 70 new veniremen in the court room, and when about half of this number had been examined, four additional jurors had been secured, making a total of seven. It is likely that a new panel will be necessary. The new jurors are H. B. Shryock, Hamiltonban; Harvey Newman, Franklin; John Ditzler, Union township; Walter F. Foulk, Cumberland. Mr. Shryock was selected Tuesday afternoon. One noticeable fact after a conference of the attorneys with the President Judge was that neither side asked prospective jurors whether they favored capital punishment for murder in the first degree.

The four jurors who were selected Tuesday afternoon spent the night at the City Hotel guarded by Theo. Frock and A. V. Weikert, tipstaves. Judge McPherson ordered the men to refrain from speaking or listening to anyone about the case.

The foreman of the grand jury presented the indictment charging Miss Geiselman with murder to Judge McPherson, Monday afternoon. When Deputy Clerk of the Courts, William Taughinbaugh, had finished reading the lengthy bill of indictment returned by the grand jury, Miss Geiselman replied in a strong, firm voice, "Not guilty." A third count against Helen Geiselman was returned by the grand jury Tuesday morning. The charge was that of concealing the death of a child. This count, however, will wait on the result of action on which she is now being tried, according to court house officials.

Miss Geiselman, the defendant, in court Tuesday maintained her composure throughout the tedious examination of jurors. Her case is being handled by J. Donald Swope, Esq., and John D. Keith, Esq., while District Attorney Topper, assisted by George A. Benner, Esq., is conducting the case for the commonwealth. Judge Donald P. McPherson is presiding. No women were in the jury panel examined.

Miss Geiselman in court yesterday appeared somewhat tired and listless and showed apparently little or no interest in the routine procedure of selecting jurors.

Mrs. Clinton A. Cashman, Lincoln Way, West, was admitted to the Warner hospital yesterday as a medical patient.

Albert Wolf, of Littlestown, Alice Kint, Gettysburg and William Deardorff, Hampton, patients at the Warner hospital, Gettysburg, were discharged from that institution on Wednesday. Dr. H. M. Allemen, of Hanover, was admitted as a medical patient at the York hospital Thursday.

Those discharged from the Warner Hospital Saturday were Hildegrade Hagen, Lavina and Leslie Weikert, all of Gettysburg.

Viola Strausbaugh, Guernsey, was admitted to the Warner hospital to undergo an operation.

Mrs. Carl Shultz and daughter, Bernice, of near Gettysburg, were discharged from the Warner hospital on Tuesday. Mrs. Charles Riffe, of Littlestown, and Mrs. Rebecca Miller, of York, were also discharged. The latter was hurt east of New Oxford, on Sunday.

Mrs. and Mrs. Nathaniel Miller, Lincoln Way, West, a daughter.

Mr. and Mrs. Hilary Smith, near Conewago Chapel, on Monday, a son.

Mr. and Mrs. John Groupe, of near Gettysburg, on Aug. 26th, a daughter.

Praef, and Mrs. Eugene Brady, of Grovestown, a son. Prof. Brady was a former resident of Abbottstown.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Walter Baker, Philadelphia, a son. Walter is a son of C. H. Baker, formerly of East Berlin.

Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Conrad, McSherrystown, a daughter.

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Shultz, of Paradise township, a daughter.

Mr. and Mrs. John D. Becker, of Gettysburg, a daughter.

Mr. and Mrs. Francis Knox, Gettysburg, a daughter.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Crowl, of Abbottstown, a 10-pound girl.

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Sherdell, of St. Louis, formerly of McSherrystown, a son.

Lieut. and Mrs. Louis A. Day, Ft. Logan, Col., a daughter. Before her marriage Mrs. Day was Miss Ruth Faber, of Gettysburg.

Mr. and Mrs. Dan Hinkle, near New Chester, and Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Sowers, Hanover, visited Mr. and Mrs. E. R. Chronister, Greenridge, on Sunday.

BARN BURNED NEAR MT. ROCK

The large bank barn on the farm owned by Wm. McSherry, Esq., of Gettysburg, and tenanted by Turney Slusser, situated about one mile from Mt. Rock, was totally destroyed by fire on Tuesday afternoon about 2 o'clock. The cause of the blaze is unknown. Mr. Slusser was assisting to thrash at Emory Kruse's farm nearby. Mrs. Slusser and children noticed flames issuing from the straw stack and spread the alarm but until help had arrived the fire had gained too great a headway. All the livestock was saved except a 600-lb. bull. With the barn burned most of the season's crops and a binder, drill and load of phosphate on a farm wagon. The wagon shed and hog pen were saved thru valiant work on the part of the Mt. Rock chemical engine and a bucket brigade. The loss is estimated at several thousand dollars, partly covered by insurance. Mr. McSherry will build a new barn on the same side of the road as the house. The McSherrystown Fire Co. came to the scene on Tuesday evening and thoroughly drenched the burning embers.

Mr. Slusser in assisting to rescue the live stock was overcome by the smoke and Dr. G. H. Seaks, of New Oxford, was called to give medical attention. Mr. Slusser's loss is about $600 and Mr. McSherry's about $3000.

The wheat had been threshed and the grain hauled to market, only nine bushels of wheat and 18 of screenings being in the barn. The insurance was carried in the Gettysburg and Adams County Mutual companies.

NEW CHESTER ITEMS

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Zepp, on Aug. 22nd, a son.

Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Witters, New Chester, on Sunday, a son.

Mrs. Monroe Boyer and Miss Annie Thomas, of New Chester, have been on the sick list.

The Woman's Missionary Society of the New Chester Reformed church will hold their regular meeting Sunday evening. Everybody welcome.

The 75-acre farm between New Chester and Heidlersburg offered at public sale on Friday by the Rev. C. H. Shull was withdrawn at a bid of $1800. The Rev. Shull will teach and preach at New Cumberland.

A. C. Hoffheins, Hanover, spent Sunday with Clayton Eicholtz and family.

Geo. Milhimes, wife and son, spent Sunday with Reilly Dillman and wife, of Gettysburg.

Mrs. Wm. Money spent Sunday with Franklin Miller and family, near Heidlersburg.

County Supt. of Schools Raymond Shank and wife, of Gettysburg, spent Sunday with his parents, Wm. Shank and wife.

Alvin Groupe, wife and daughter, spent Sunday with Robt. Weaver and family, near Huntersville.

Mrs. Sam. Cashman spent Sunday with her sister, Mrs. Clinton Sadler, formerly of Biglerville, who is a patient in the Harrisburg hospital.

C. A. Brame, wife and son and Mrs. Annie Brame motored to Harrisburg on Sunday.

Chas. Winand, wife and son and Geo. Frank and wife, of Midway, and Miss Maggie Winand spent Sunday with Robt. Spangler and mother, near Heidlersburg.

Chas. Kemper, of New Chester, who became lost and stranded in East Berlin, was given lodging one night recently and shown the way to go home next morning by Policeman Berkhelmer.—News.

An enjoyable party was held on Friday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Augustus Stough, New Chester, in honor of Mrs. Stough's 65th birthday anniversary, at which about 125 of her friends gathered to surprise her. All spent a pleasant evening. Refreshments were served, after which all returned to their homes wishing Mrs. Stough many more birthdays.

CROWL HOME AGAIN ENTERED

Forebode entry was made into the residence of Charles Crowl, at the west end of Abbottstown, on Monday night, by prying a shutter, Mr. and Mrs. Crowl and family are at present temporarily residing with Mrs. Crowl's parents, Mr. and Mrs. H. V. Rahn, and have had their residence closed. Two men were seen by Mr. Crowl leaving the place early in the morning and upon investigation found they had been in the house, and so far as he was able to see nothing was taken, but the rooms had been ransacked. This is the second time, since spring, that the house has been broken into, four young men recently having been arrested in New Oxford for entering the Crowl home.

GREENRIDGE ITEMS

The Green Ridge S. S. will hold their Rally Day this Sunday afternoon at 2 o'clock at Greenridge schoolhouse. Able speakers and a quartet from Gettysburg will be present.

Mr. and Mrs. H. I. James and daughter, Esther, and Mr. and Mrs. Thomas James and daughter, Ruth, and son Lloyd, spent Thursday with Mr. and Mrs. Cleveland Chronister. They left for Gettysburg on Friday to take in the battlefield and then returned to Lebanon.

Mr. and Mrs. Dan Hinkle, near New Chester, and Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Sowers, Hanover, visited Mr. and Mrs. E. R. Chronister, Greenridge, on Sunday.

CROSS KEYS GETS ON MAP

AS AUTO ACCIDENT CENTER

Mrs. Rebecca Miller, of York, was admitted to the Warner hospital, Sunday morning, the result of minor injuries received when she was thrown over the side of the auto in which she was riding when it was struck by another machine from the rear at R. C. Taughinbaugh's farm east of New Oxford. When the driver of the car in which Mrs. Miller was riding brot his machine to a halt, the woman was hanging head downward over the side. She was badly shaken up and suffered from the shock, but received no other injury.

A Ford touring car driven by Leo Martz, of near Brunshtown, skidded on the wet Lincoln Highway, ran down an embankment and overturned on its side Sunday evening a short distance beyond Cross Keys. Several of the occupants, who were Mrs. Geo. Martz, near Brunshtown, Frank Martz and son and Miss Mary Martz, Hanover, were slightly injured. The windshield, fender and top of the car were damaged. It was able to proceed under its own power, while the occupants of the car were taken in by passing motorists.

Five cars mixed things up at the Cross Keys on Sunday evening. One ran off the Highway, and the driver of another, seeing the accident occur, slowed up and was run into by a machine in his rear. A number of motorists stopt to investigate and a fourth car was then struck by No. 5. Damage slight all around.

An auto is reported to have run into the fence at the R. C. Taughinbaugh farm east of town, last Wednesday, but no further particulars of the accident could be learned.

NEW OXFORD SCHOOLS

WILL OPEN ON TUESDAY

The public schools of New Oxford will open Tuesday, Sept. 5th. School will be called at 8:45 for a full day session. All pupils should enroll the first day. Children who will be six years old before Jan. 31st, 1923, and expect to enter school during the year should also enroll the first day.

The respective grades will be instructed by the following teachers: first and second, Miss Anna Myers; third and fourth, Miss Elmira Ruff; fifth and sixth, Mr. Ray J. Sponsler; seventh and eighth, Miss Lottie Hulick. Prof. Clarence P. Keefe, supervising principal, will teach the High School.

The first regular teachers' meeting will be held on Thursday afternoon, August 31st, at 2 o'clock in the school building.

Prof. Keefe arrived in this place from his home in Lebanon on Monday and will reside at the home of Mrs. H. A. Weikert on Lincoln Way, West.

The primary school will again be conducted in the Item building.

AARON GEISLER'S AUTO

STRUCK BY W. M. TRAIN

But for the fact that Aaron Geisler, Lincoln Way, West, was driving his Overland touring car slowly on Friday evening, he, his wife and son Raymond probably would have been crushed at the W. M. crossing on the Kilpatrick road when the Geisler car was struck by the westbound passenger train. Mr. Geisler was on the lookout for a train, but failing to hear one approaching and the view of the track being obstructed by corn, he was almost on the rails when the engine bore down upon him. Mr. Geisler threw his car in reverse quickly but not before the two lights and a wheel were torn off. Fortunately the car was not upset and the occupants escaped injury. The conductor observed the accident and the train was backed to the scene. Guy Staub brot the Geislers and the car to this place.

CAMPBELL BROS' TRAINED ANIMAL CIRCUS COMING

Campbell Bros', World-Toured shows will exhibit at New Oxford, tomorrow (Friday) afternoon and night, under waterproof tents. Don't forget the day and date for this is the show that is absolutely different from all others. Campbell Bros', famous show presents trained Lions performing in a large steel arena, elephants, bears, monkeys, mules, educated Shetland ponies and dogs. Among the arena acts there are clever acrobats, gymnasts, aerial artists, trapeze performers, jugglers, tumblers and funny clowns. This is the show that you will take your wife, your mother or sweetheart; this is the show that gives what it advertises—the show that pleases.

HER AILMENTS ALL GONE NOW

Mrs. Sherman Helped by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Lake, Michigan.—"About one year ago I suffered with irregularities and a weakness and at times was obliged to stay off my feet. I doctored with our family physician and he finally said he could not understand my case, so I decided to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. After I had taken the first bottle I could see that I was getting better. I took several bottles of the Vegetable Compound and used Lydia E. Pinkham's Sanative Wash and I am entirely cured of my ailments. You may publish this letter if you wish."—Mrs. MARY SHERMAN, Route 2, Lake, Mich.

There is one fact women should consider and that is this. Women suffer from irregularities and various forms of weakness. They try this and that doctor, as well as different medicines. Finally they take Lydia E. Pinkham's Compound, and Mrs. Sherman's experience is simply another case showing the merit of this well-known medicine.

If your family physician fails to help you and the same old troubles persist, why isn't it reasonable to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound?

Some Lawyers Do.

Boy, in Dream, Sees His Father Killed

Dallas, Tex.—A smoke stack on which they were working fell and crushed Fletcher Lambert, eight, and Victor Curley, twenty-eight, to death.

Just twelve hours before the accident rather Edward Curley, ten-year-old son of Victor Curley, awakened from a troubled sleep, crying to his mother that he had seen his father fall from the smoke stack, which crushed his father beneath it. On the previous day the boy had returned from Marl, where he had visited his father and Lambert, who were erecting the stack.

University.

Dungeness, Wash.—Destroying three expensive salmon nets, breaking one man's leg and wrecking a row-boat, a gigantic wolf fish, fifteen feet long, paid the death penalty after two hours of fight off the sand spit here.

Fast in the nets, the wolf fish lay quiet and subdued until disturbed by the fishermen, when with a swift rush he overwhelmed the party. The fish possesses a head as large as that of a cow, massive jaws studded with harrow teeth, and is endowed with powerful strength. It is said to be one of the largest of the species ever caught in the north Pacific.

The huge jaws and teeth are used for crushing clams, crabs and other shellfish. When cleaned for preservation, this wolf fish monster had in its stomach a recent breakfast, consisting of nearly 200 pounds of oysters, clams, whole fish, three salmon heads, a tentacle of a squid, a hair-seal flipper, the neck of a ketchup bottle and three cork floats from the nets.

The state university will get the specimen.

FAKES AGE TO GO TO PRISON

Boy, Sixteen, Wanted Jail of Real Men, Not Kids—Confessed Stealing Auto.

Brooklyn, N. Y.—"I didn't want to hang out with the kids and be sent away with them."

George Topping, sixteen years old, made this statement when the complaint of grand larceny against him was dismissed by Judge McLaughlin in county court. The judge turned the youth over to the children's court.

George, when arrested May 8, confessed stealing an automobile. He gave his age as twenty-one. He was then sent to the New York city reformatory. Assistant District Attorney Taylor of Brooklyn was given documentary proof that George was sixteen years old, not twenty-one. George looks like a man.

"I knew I was guilty," he said, "so I decided to go to jail with real men and not kids. That's why I lied about my age."

Kingsville, Ont., Canada.—An aftermath of the Indian scare in this section of Ontario was the cause of the serious condition of Jack Saunders, schoolboy, who is a victim of a "wild Indian game."

The lad was placed in the center of a heap of logs and tied to a stake. Playmates set fire to the pile with a torch. The flames soon got beyond the boys' control. The lad would have burned to death had not a passerby jumped through the flames and cut away the ropes and dragged off the victim.

SICILIAN SLOWLY TURNS TO STONE

Is Tramping Across Sand Wastes in Texas to Die Among Petrified Trees.

SCION OF OLD ROME

Race With Death Is Nearing End.
Though His Muscles Are Hardening—Fortune Depleted by World War.

Brownsheld, Texas.—Mile by mile through the sand wastes of western Texas, his body slowly turning to stone so that even a smile on his face is hardly distinguishable, Giuseppe Orlando, scion of one of the oldest Sicilian noble families, is slowly trudging his way to the petrified forests of Arizona where he hopes to die.

Unless some passing tourist lends a kindly hand he may never reach his destination. The strange malady with which he was afflicted several years ago in Sicily is slowly making walking impossible. His nose is already as hard as marble. Physicians in Europe and America, to whom he has appealed, shake their heads in despair.

He has what is commonly known as myositis ossificans, a disease in which large areas of muscles gradually become hardened by limestone deposits. Arterial sclerosis is a similar disease, but the limestone forms only in the blood vessels. It is only a matter of time in myositis, however, until the vital organs of the body are affected and death steps in like a dream at night.

A Beloved Teacher.

Orlando, an old man at sixty-two, spent his life in a little Sicilian village. Though afforded a good education by the money one ancestor after another had handed down to his parents, he never had to work for a living. He was not idle. On the contrary, he was the village's most interesting, most fascinating teacher. On the curbstones of one of the by streets groups of children flocked about him at all hours of the day, even into the night. He taught them the history of their country, the glories of the old Roman empire, in which his ancestors played so great a part. What he learned from books merely supplemented that which his parents had told him and his grandparents had told his parents.

The World war vastly depleted the family fortunes, until he, an only child, without a definite vocation in life, too old to learn any, was reduced almost to poverty. To add to his distress he fell a victim to this strange disease. He had read about the petrified forests in the United States, and he determined, inasmuch as his own body was soon to be petrified, that he would die where nature's plants and animals had died such a death.

Sails for America.

So he set out for America with the pitance the poor villagers had given him. When he arrived his money was gone, and he determined to walk across the country to accomplish the one great aim of his life.

Orlando is nearing his goal, but so is the dreadful disease. He walks with great difficulty. The food that farmers and townspeople en route give him is received only with a courtly bow and "thank you," spoken in good English—he cannot move the skin and muscles of his face enough to smile. But he does smile inwardly. He smiles with each step he takes, knowing that he is nearer his land of death where all that has died and all that is dying turns to stone.

Chick With Extra Eye and Bill.
Trenton, Mo.—A chicken with three eyes and two bills was found in a flock of chicks that were hatched by a hen belonging to Lucretia Shaw of this city. In caring for the small chicks of her flock Mrs. Shaw accidentally ran across the freak chicken. It was well formed otherwise and seemed to be as pert and healthy as the others.

Wit and Humor

BROTHER'S HOME

The fact that his supposedly adored big brother was returning home from college that day had been carefully concealed from ten-year-old Tommy until he came back from school.

"Tommy," said his mother, after her younger son had gone upstairs to wash his face and the elder had been concealed in the pantry, "I have a big surprise for you."

"I know what it is," replied Tommy unconcernedly. "Brother's back."

"Why, how did you guess that?"

"'Cause my money-box won't rattle any more."

Had to Walk Back.

"You are an hour late this morning, Sam," said an employer to his negro servant.

"Yes, sah, I was kicked by a mule on my way, sah."

"That ought not to have detained you an hour, Sam."

"Well, you see, boss, it wouldn't if he'd only kicked me in this direction; but he kicked me de other way."

What Is It Worth to Change a Tire?

On the road changing a tire is not an especially pleasant task.

The dust or mud, the grease and grime, the tedious delay—all are things we like to avoid.

But the time to think about these things is when you buy the tire—not after the blow-out occurs. For some tires blow out much more easily than others. Outward appearance counts for little.

It is the material in the tire and the construction of it that determines its strength.

Goodyear recognizes these facts and all Goodyear tires are made of long staple cotton.

Take the 30 x 3 3/4 Cross Rib Clincher Tire here illustrated, for example.

It is made of Egyptian and Arizona cotton, the fibres of which average 1 1/2 inches long.

Many 30 x 3 3/4 clincher tires are made of short staple cotton from 1/2 inch to 1 1/4 inches long.

This means less strength and greater danger of blow-outs—more tire troubles.

Yet this high grade guaranteed Goodyear Tire costs only $10.95.

You can buy some tires for even less than this but none with the fine materials and construction of this one.

Can you afford to take a chance on more frequent tire troubles for the sake of the slightly lower price of cheaper tires?

Daddy's Evening Fairy Tale

BILLIE BROWNIE'S DISCOVERY

"It is perfectly ridiculous," said Billie Brownie, "to say one doesn't like a race of people because one has met one member of that race whom one didn't like."

"It is utterly absurd for anyone to say that children aren't nice because he may have met one child he didn't like."

"It is very stupid to say anything like that, for I have discovered something."

"Yes," said Billie Brownie, "tell me about it, Billie."

"I was thinking principally about birds," said Billie Brownie.

"I've been meeting some of the winter birds. Such dear brave creatures, not minding the snow or the cold weather, trying to be cheery and bright—even when their supply of food runs low."

"There are the darling little Song-Sparrows. How I do love the Song-Sparrows."

"They have spotted throats and their vests are spotted, too, you know, and in the center they always have one spot which is larger than the others."

"They eat harmful insects and do just as much good as ever they can."

"Then there are the Cedar Waxwings. They are always trying to destroy harmful flies, and they try to give cheer in the winter time."

"The Chickadees are as cheerful and bright as they can be, and they eat insect eggs and do all the work they can."

"They love to be given suet in the winter time so as to feel that their work is being thought well of and so that they may know that they are well liked."

"But the goshawk is very different. He is a bad creature. He will do as much harm as the Great Horned Owl, and he does a great deal of harm about poultry yards that the so-called 'hen hawk' is supposed to do."

"Yes, old Goshawk is a bad creature. He isn't quite so big, nor is he quite as strong as his mate—for in the hawk families the Mrs. Hawks have more strength and are of greater size as a rule than their mates."

"He is a handsome fellow and wears a gray-blue cape and a gray waistcoat. He is hated among the birds for he is so cruel and drives them to the ground only to kill them and have a meal."

"He attacks the partridge family, and someone said that a Goshawk will even put on such airs that he will only eat brains of pheasants—and kill pheasants just to eat their brains which he thinks are delicacies."

"But you see, one cannot judge all birds by the Goshawk or the Butcher Bird."

"So, if someone had only known those two birds and said they disliked all birds, it would be just the same as it is when someone has met one or two people of a certain land or a certain race or a certain town and has happened to meet disagreeable ones and then says:

"I know all about those people. I've met some. And I don't like them."

"For there are some few bad birds, but most of them are splendid."

"So I have discovered that one cannot judge by meeting just one or two of any group—no, one cannot judge at all."

"And I really do believe that it is only fair to judge each creature by what he or she does."

"That is what I have come to believe."

"And I agree with you, Billie Brownie," said Billie Brownie. "I agree with every word you've said."

Frightened.

Jimmy, who was inclined to be a braggart, was telling his father and mother of his experiences while out camping.

"And all at once I stepped on a big rattlesnake," he began.

"How did you know it was a rattlesnake, Jimmy?" asked his father, sceptically.

"I could hear its teeth chatter!" the minute it saw me."

"And now, Johnny," said the teacher, "can you tell me what is raised in Mexico?"

"Aw, go on," replied the bright boy.

"I know what you want me to say, but ma told me I shouldn't talk rough."

LESSON FOR SEPTEMBER 3

NEHEMIAH REBUILDS THE WALLS OF JERUSALEM

LESSON TEXT—Neh. 3:1-7:4.
GOLDEN TEXT—Our God will fight for us.—Neh. 4:20.

REFERENCE MATERIAL—Neh. 2:9-20; I Cor. 3:9-17.

PRIMARY TOPIC—How God helped Nehemiah Build a Wall.

JUNIOR TOPIC—How a City Wall Was Rebuilt.

INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—Praying, Watching, Working.

YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—Success Through Leadership and Cooperation.

Having secured a leave of absence from the Persian court, and credentials from the king, Nehemiah journeyed to Jerusalem. After resting three days without disclosing his purpose to any one, he made a survey of the walls by night. Having thus obtained first-hand information he called the representatives of the Jews together and said, "Let us build the walls of Jerusalem." He then made known the hand of providence in bringing him to Jerusalem with the authority to rebuild its walls. He thus showed great wisdom in finding out for himself the real conditions and what work would be required to restore the walls. The one who is qualified to lead in a great undertaking is the one who has mastered the situation and is thus able to remove objections and show how the work can be done.

1.—Preparation for the Building (ch. 3).

The division of labor in this project shows Nehemiah's administrative ability. A wise distribution of labor makes difficult tasks easy.

Note some outstanding features of this great work.

1. Stress Laid Upon Indifference (3:5). In administrative tasks it is just that unfaithfulness should be pointed out. Such action will be a warning to some and an encouragement to others by showing the integrity of the director.

2. Help Rendered by the Women (3:12). Perhaps Shallah had no sons to aid him. It is a fine thing for women to be able to take hold even in building a wall when there are no men to do it. God's word carefully notes such extraordinary acts.

3. Stress Laid Upon Earnestness of Some (3:20). If one knows that his faithfulness will be recognized he will earnestly pursue his tasks.

4. Every One Built Over Against His Own House (3:10, 23, 28). Man's chief concern is for his family. No incentive to exertion is quite so strong as that which concerns his own family.

5. Certain Guilds of Men Undertook Certain Work (ch. 3:8, 31, 32). Wise administration sometimes calls for such alignment of efforts. Men of the same class and craft will usually work better together.

II. Hindrances Encountered (4:1-6:14).

1. Scoffing of Sanballat and Tobiah (4:1-6; cf. 2:19-20). The opposers of God's servants usually begin by hurling at them shafts of ridicule. They called the Jews but a feeble folk and asserted that the tread of a prowling fox would break down their stone wall.

2. Conspiracy of a Sudden Attack (4:7-9). When the enemy saw that the work was actually succeeding they changed from ridicule to an attempt to throw the workmen into a panic and thus hinder the work. When the enemy cannot succeed by scoffing then he resorts to intimidation.

3. Conspiracy With the Jews (4:10-23). They sought by means of the Jews from the outside to discourage their brethren by showing that the task was hopeless and that at any time they were subject to a sudden and secret attack.

4. Greed and Oppression of the Rulers (5:1-13). The Jews of that day, like the profiteers in the recent World War, took advantage of the poor and oppressed them so that they mortgaged their land and sold their daughters into slavery. Nehemiah boldly rebuked them for their crimes and ordered a restoration to be made, exacting an oath of them that they would fulfill their promises.

5. Scheme to Take Nehemiah's Life (6:1-14). When Sanballat and Tobiah failed in every other way they sought by craft to get Nehemiah away that they might kill him.

III. The Wall Completed (6:15-7:4).

So energetically did they pursue their tasks that in fifty-two days the wall was completed. When the enemies heard that in spite of all their schemes the work was actually completed, they were cast down, for they perceived that the work was of God.

Find the Rock Beneath.

The steps of faith fall on the seeming void, but find the rock beneath.—Whittier.

Empty.

Four things are grievously empty: A head without brains, a wit without judgment, a heart without honesty, and a purse without money.—Earle.

Cultivate Forbearance.

Cultivate forbearance till your heart yields a fine crop of it. Pray for a short memory to all unkindnesses.

MRS. ABBEY PROUD OF HER BIG GAIN

Weight Increased 39 Pounds and Nine Years' Trouble Ended.

"I hardly see how I endured such awful suffering, and if it hadn't been for Tanlac I don't believe I would be here today," said Mrs. Mollie Abbey, of Jennings Lodge, Ore.

"For nine years everything I ate caused gas to form so that it almost drove me distracted. I didn't dare eat any fruit and for four years if I even drank a glass of cold water I would suffer dreadfully. No one who didn't see me can imagine the awful condition I was in."

"But Tanlac changed all this and now I'm simply feeling fine. My appetite is splendid. I eat anything I want, have actually gained thirty-nine pounds and have so much strength and energy I easily do all my household work. Tanlac is a wonderful medicine."

Tanlac is sold by all good druggists.—Advertisement.

Depends on the Result.

"Don't you admire determination in a man's character?"

"That depends. If it brings success I praise it as a splendid perseverance. If failure, I denounce it as confounded obstinacy."

USEFUL for all the little ailments—bumps, bruises, sores, sunburn and chafing. Keep a bottle in the house. It's safe and pure. It costs very little. CHESEBROUGH MFG. CO. (Consolidated) State Street New York

AS BOBBY HAD IT FIGURED

Quite Satisfied That Auntie's Appearance Must Have Undergone Considerable Change.

I am rather proud of my looks and always take pains to appear my best for company.

One morning I was just finishing the sweeping when my brother and his family, whom I had not seen for a couple of years, drove in the yard. With them were a couple of well-dressed women, and I was naturally embarrassed to have them find me with hair disheveled and dust streaked face. However, I welcomed them graciously and we sat down to talk.

I noticed that Bobby, my small nephew, was studying me intently, and during a lull in the conversation he said: "Auntie, you must have been good looking when you were young."

"Yes," I beamed, with my pleasant smile, scenting a compliment, "what makes you think so, dear?"

"Because," answered Bobby, "uncle would never marry you the way you look now."—Chicago Tribune.

Childish Wisdom.

"Mary, if you misbehave like that you will make your mother angry at you."

Little Mary—That don't scare me, she ain't my wife.

It Did.

First lawyer—"Did his address to the jury carry conviction?" Second ditto—"It did. His client got five years."

Powerful.

"Old Rip Radges, that's been wallerin' in his sins for forty years, was converted at the revival last night," said Gap Johnson of Rumpus Ridge, Ark. "That there evangelist is a powerful preacher."

"He shore is!" returned an acquaintance. "I live half a mile away, and right when he got to the top of his hollerin' at Satin last night, b'dogged if the clock at my house didn't stop!"—Kansas City Star.

Advised to Jump.

"What's Blinks going to do with his new noiseless typewriter?"

"If he takes my advice he'll marry her."—Life.

Thoroughbred.

"Is he a man of good breeding?"

"Well, I know he took five firsts at the poultry show."

Dear Sirs:

Mr. Robert T. Donnell of Auburntown, Tenn., came in our store the other day and wanted something to kill rats, so I sold him a box Stearns' Rat Paste. And he put some paste on six biscuits that night and the next morning he found fifty-four big rats. And the second night he put out four more biscuits with paste on them, and the second morning he found seventeen more rats, making a total of seventy-one rats in two nights, and there were lots more that he did not find. This is some big rat tale, but nevertheless, it is a fact that you rat paste is good.

Harassed Citizens of American Cities Should Welcome Idea That Comes From Buenos Aires.

In these days of lawlessness, when the honest citizen cannot take a walk around the block with any certainty that he will not be held up by a bandit, the novel idea of Antonio Monaco, a citizen of Buenos Aires, ought to be of value.

He suggests suspenders with pockets attached to them—two pockets, that is to say, each of them being fastened with a buckle to the loop of the "gallus" at the front. The lower end of each pocket has two button-holes, which button onto the ordinary buttons of the waistband of the trousers, thus making the pocket flaps secure against the body of the wearer. To prevent escape of its contents, each pocket is provided with a buttoned flap.

Few bandits would think of looking for loot beneath a man's waistcoat, and so the suspender pocket should afford excellent hiding places for money. Against pickpockets they ought to furnish a perfect protection.—Milwaukee Sentinel.

CHAPTERS OF AUTO ACCIDENTS

Isaac Mickley, 66, of Cashtown, who had been summoned for jury duty at court this week, received a fracture of the right leg between the knee and hip, Sunday afternoon, when he was struck by an auto in Cashtown, driven by H. S. Wise, of near Chambersburg. Mr. Mickley was walking, shielding himself from the rain with an umbrella which he had pulled down over his head. Mr. Wise is said to have acknowledged that his attention was diverted from the roadway for an instant and he failed to see the approaching pedestrian. The car hurled Mr. Mickley about 10 feet into a gutter. Mr. Wise stopped and rendered all possible assistance. Mr. Mickley was removed to the Warner hospital Sunday evening.

Blinded by the strong headlights of an approaching machine, J. P. Bowers, of York, hit the cement side walls of the culvert on the Hanover-Abbottstown road between Hartman's road and Abbottstown on Sunday evening, badly wrecking his car. Mr. Bowers was accompanied by his wife and three children, one of whom, a daughter, was badly cut on the head by flying glass from the windshield. She was taken to the office of Dr. T. C. Miller, Abbottstown, who gave the necessary surgical attention. The machine was taken to the Abbottstown garage for repairs.

A light six Studebaker touring car driven by Daniel Light, York, skidded on the wet surface of the Littlestown 'pike about a mile south of Littlestown Sunday afternoon and went over an embankment, diting and smashing the left hind wheel. Mrs. Light was badly bruised and suffered from shock. A passing motorist took the family to Littlestown.

Jas. Straw, 22, was admitted to the York hospital on Saturday with a fractured skull and concussion of brain as the result of a fall from the rear of an auto truck, caused by the chain supporting the endgate unhooking in going over a bump in the road. Straw landed on his head.

A Ford coupe, driven by a man named Baker, of Hanover, crashed into Victor Cocklin's automobile, in York, Sunday evening, damaging both cars. The matter was amicably adjusted.

A brown Empire touring car which skidded and ran into an embankment along the Abbottstown 'pike near Hartman's mill Saturday afternoon, evidently deserted by its owner, had 3 of its tires stolen Saturday night. The fourth tire was pinned beneath the damaged car.

While Plus Meckley, of Blooming Grove, was driving thru Midway on Saturday afternoon an auto crashed into the rear of his buggy, smashing the rear wheels.

A touring car, property of Lester Sentz, of Greenmount, was completely demolished in a smashup with a Maryland car on Saturday evening. The occupants were not injured.

The 23rd annual convention of the Adams County S. S. Assn. opened at Fairfield yesterday and will close today. A feature of the opening session was a sermon by Rev. Dr. H. B. Stock, of Carlisle. The devotional period was in charge of Rev. Ralph Baker. The meeting was then divided into three divisional conferences for adults, for young people and children. This Thursday evening a street parade of all those attending the convention will be held. Today the annual Sunday School Conference of Young People will also be held in Fairfield.

Mr. and Mrs. Dennis Fisel, White Run, have returned home from a visit to Youngstown, Ohio, and Pittsburgh. They were accompanied home by Miss Mary E. Funk.

YORKERS HURT AT ABBOTTSTOWN
After skidding on the Lincoln Highway, just east of Abbottstown, Sunday afternoon, a machine driven by Robt. McPherson, proprietor of the Colonial hotel, York, was ditched and four of the occupants injured. Mr. and Mrs. Murdock McPherson, parents of the hotel man, were taken to West Side sanatorium, York. Two children of Robt. McPherson were also in the car. Murdock McPherson, the most seriously injured, suffered a scalp wound and possible other injuries. His wife suffered a gash over her left eye, which required several stitches. Mrs. Robt. McPherson suffered bruises about the body. A maid suffered from a gash over her right eye. The accident occurred when Mr. McPherson drew his brakes tight, to avoid colliding with a car that stopped a short distance in front of his. The drawing of the brakes caused the car to skid over a 4-foot embankment, turning it on the side. Murdock McPherson was thrown against the bank, hitting his head. The car was slightly damaged.

The following motored from Harrisburg to the home of Mrs. Henry Rinehart, Sr., near town, on Sunday: Mr. and Mrs. Harry Gettel and two daughters, Gladys and Bessie, George Rinehart, Ralph Groft, George Reber, Misses Emma Reinhardt and Gentie Chronister, Mr. and Mrs. Ed. McLinn, Bobby and Teddy McLinn, Mr. and Mrs. Richard McLinn and daughter Virginia, Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Reiningner and son Frank, Frank Newmesper, Miss Ethel Kimmel and Mrs. Guy Gladfelter, Mr. and Mrs. Quinn Guyman, Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Goulden and granddaughter, Evelyn Ness, and Frank Anzer. The following visited at the same place: Misses Margaret and Elizabeth James, of Baltimore; Henry Rinehart, Jr., and family, Henry, Margaret and Sarah, John Rinehart, Lewis Smith and family, Eugene, Merna and Gladys, Lizzie Rinehart, F. X. Groft and family, Edna, Ethel, Charles and Harry, Charles Rinehart and family, Margaret, Florence and Charles, Mr. and Mrs. Allen Brashshears, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Gebhart, Pauline and Earl Gebhart, W. L. Kohler, Lester Rider and Harvey Taughinbaugh.

Cause of Appendicitis.—When the bowels are constipated, the lower bowels or large intestines become packed with refuse matter, that is made up largely of germs. These germs enter the vermiform appendix and set up inflammation, which is commonly known as appendicitis. Take Chamberlain's Tablets when needed and keep your bowels regular and you have little to fear from appendicitis.

One of the entertainment features of the annual State Convention of the Pennsylvania Association of Letter Carriers, which will be held in York, September 4 and 5, will be a tour of the Gettysburg battlefield. The delegates will arrive Saturday and Sunday and the trip to Gettysburg will be made Sunday afternoon. It is expected between 100 and 125 carriers will attend the convention.

Mrs. Caroline Craig, (colored), York, whose age on the voting list appears at 106, to a reporter declared that she is "a straight plumb Republican" and will be so until she is no longer physically able to cast her ballot. Regular habits, plenty of rest, a word not to imply laziness, and determination are Mrs. Craig's formula for a life worth living.

Miss Martha McKay, superintendent of the Lumdale Hospital, at Lumdale, W. Va., who was elected superintendent of the Warner Hospital, at Gettysburg, by the Board of Directors to succeed Miss Elizabeth M. Thomas, whose resignation was accepted by the board a month ago with regret, will assume charge tomorrow.

The potato growers of Pennsylvania Friday afternoon presented the Pennsylvania State College with a subscription fund for the erection of a modern hospital for the use of the college students. Four thousand farmers, representing every county in the state, witnessed the ground breaking.

The recently opened General Cigar factory in Gettysburg is advertising for 150 hands, and the building may be enlarged.

The Abbottstown baseball team on Saturday afternoon defeated the Clearview nine, 8 to 5, at the Farmers' picnic.

The Conewago township schools will open next Monday.

TOURING CAR
F.O.D. Cleveland

EVERY motorist knows that $1495 is little money for a Chandler.

Even a brief comparison for style, size and power proves the dominating value and makes decision easy.

The smart exclusiveness of its body rivals the custom-built product. Its chassis concentrates every advantage of ruggedness, durability, economy and smooth performance.

Whether in open or closed models, no more quality per dollar ever went into an automobile.

HAGERSTOWN PLAYERS

INJURED IN SMASH

Four members of the Hagerstown team of the Blue Ridge league were injured on Saturday at 7 p. m., when an auto in which they were returning to that place after a game at Hanover, struck a telegraph pole along the W. M. R.R. at Brush Run. Three of the players will be out of the game for the remainder of the season. The injured were: Holmes Diehl, Frostburg, Md., center fielder, piece of flesh torn out of right hand. "Lefty" Russell, pitcher, few scratches; John Layne, Clifton Forge, Va., second baseman, cut on top of the head; William Reilly, pitcher, burst blood vessel in right leg. Six of the players were returning in a touring car driven by John Nunemaker, of Hagerstown. At the crossing, Nunemaker saw a freight train approaching. He endeavored to turn into a side road, but the turn was too sharp and he ran the car into a telegraph pole, wrecking the machine. Had the car not hit the pole, it would not have crossed the tracks without being struck by the locomotive. Diehl and Russell were thrown from the car. They were seated with the driver, who was unhurt. Layne, seated in the rear, was thrown against the top and rendered unconscious. He was taken to the Gettysburg hospital, being discharged next morning. Chas. Moran and Jas. Kehoe were unhurt.

A question of more than passing interest to New Oxford and surrounding districts will be taken up at the next Hanover School Board meeting, September 5th. If non-resident students are allowed to enter the Hanover high school it will mean, and within a period of one or two years, that a new building will have to be built there at an outlay of at least $250,000. It is understood that pressure will be brought to bear on the school board by state school interests looking to the continued attendance there of outsiders. Hanover taxpayers are bearing part of the burden of educating 175 students who are not Hanoverians. Transients will be cared for this year but, as for the future, action will be taken at the coming meeting.

Blinded by the glaring lights of another automobile, the driver of a Packard Twin-Six drove his car into a ditch Thursday night on the Lincoln highway, a mile east of Abbottstown. The top of the machine was completely torn off, but the two occupants of the car were uninjured. The car, owned by the American garage, of Columbia, was returning from a trip to Waynesboro and was taken to Columbia, later, under its own power.

Nora, 7-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. David Wolf, Hanover, who swallowed a ring on August 13, has fully improved from the effects of the ordeal, since the ring has been recovered. For several days after swallowing the finger ring, which was mounted with a stone, the child experienced discomfort. Now she has fully regained her health.

While riding on a motorcycle driven by Paul Jacoby, Edw. Albright, 15, in attempting to recover his cap which had blown off, stepped in the course of a car owned by B. P. Topper, McSherrytown, driven by his son, Curtis, and suffered a fractured leg in Hanover on Wednesday.

About 30 employees of the Hanover Power Company construction department enjoyed an outing Thursday at Dicks.

Arrest or imprisonment of any woman for failure to pay tax is prohibited in Pennsylvania.

Catarrh Cannot Be Cured

with LOCAL APPLICATIONS, as they cannot reach the seat of the disease. Catarrh is a local disease, greatly influenced by constitutional conditions, and in order to cure it you must use an internal remedy. Hall's Catarrh Medicine is taken internally and acts thru the blood on the mucous surfaces of the system. Hall's Catarrh Medicine was prescribed by one of the best physicians in this country for years. It is composed of some of the best tonics known, combined with some of the best blood purifiers. The perfect combination of the ingredients in Hall's Catarrh Medicine is what produces such wonderful results in catarrhal conditions. Send for testimonials, free.

LADIES! SECRET TO DARKEN GRAY HAIR

Tea Recipe.

Common garden sage brewed into a heavy tea, with sulphur and alcohol added, will turn gray, streaked and faded hair beautifully dark and luxuriant. Mixing the Sage Tea and Sulphur recipe at home, though, is troublesome. An easier way is to get the ready-to-use preparation improved by the addition of other ingredients a large bottle, at little cost, at drug stores, known as "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound," thus avoiding a lot of muss.

While gray, faded hair is not sinful, we all desire to retain our youthful appearance and attractiveness. By darkening your hair with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound, no one can tell, because it does it so naturally, so evenly. You just dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning all gray hairs have disappeared. After another application or two your hair becomes beautifully dark, glossy, soft and luxuriant and you appear years younger. Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound is a delightful toilet requisite. It is not intended for the cure, mitigation or prevention of disease.

HERE AND THERE

Older presses in Adams county are busy these days with more than a fair crop of apples being harvested.

W. E. Jacobs, York Springs, recently sold two good horses for $50 and a few days ago two dogs for a similar sum.

Keen rivalry among 200 boys and girls in competition for prizes offered in various events marked the closing of the Gettysburg Playground, on Friday.

An electric cabinet presented to the Warner hospital by the members of the Thursday Bridge Club of Gettysburg has been installed in their institution and is ready for use.

A cat belonging to John Strausbaugh, of near Larue, which attained the remarkable age of 28 years, died Wednesday. It is believed that this the oldest cat in that section.

Mrs. John Albert, of near Upper Lantzville, has raised a Guinea hen in her garden measuring 4 ft. and 4 ins. She has also obtained this season five bushels of fine plums from one tree.

Miss Geraldine Lookenbill, of Parkville, an employee of the Middleburg sewing factory, is suffering from an infected right arm. At first it was feared blood poisoning would develop.

John Mickley, of Gettysburg Troop 2, was one of the 3 Boy Scouts given the grade of Eagle Scout at a camp fire held at Camp Rothrock, Cumberland county. Frank Gardner is the other Eagle Scout in Gettysburg.

It looks as though a sleek stranger has buccooed some York Springs citizens out of about $150, going and forgetting to return and fill an appointment to meet with them and form an organization to further a bright scheme.

Irwin Plattenburg, of Gettysburg, on Friday had his wrist fractured while attempting to throw a belt on a shaft at the Eagle slink throwing plant, where he is employed. It is said that Mr. Plattenburg's arm was caught by the belt and wrapped around the shaft.

Jordan Bowers, of near Heidlersburg, ran into the buggy of Jno. Gable in York Springs Monday a week, upsetting and considerably damaging the vehicle. Luckily, Mr. Gable and his wife, who was also in the buggy, escaped serious injuries, tho the latter sustained a bruised leg. Bowers was blinded by the lights of an approaching car.

Fired on from an ambush of trees at a lonely spot near Winding Hill, as he was driving from his home in Dillsburg to work in Harrisburg Wednesday night, Francis H. Hamilton, 32 years old, stooped and was struck unconscious by the hold-up men and robbed of about $35. Two men were in the party that attacked Hamilton, according to his story when he regained consciousness in the Harrisburg hospital, two hours later. He was found unconscious under the car, which had been jammed under a culvert along the roadway. Hamilton is employed in the office of the American Express company.

At the largest convention of the State Camp P. O. S. of A. held last week in Johnstown, W. H. Long, of Hanover, was elected State Guard, a position coveted by lodge men generally and contested for by five candidates. Mr. Long went before the convention with the support of the York and Adams county bodies. The position leads to the office of State President. Mr. Long was also elected a delegate to the National camp, which will convene in Philadelphia next year, it being the diamond jubilee of the order. Dr. Eugene Elgin, of the East Berlin Camp, received the prize for bringing in the largest number of members during the year. He is a past County President.

Same Old Story, But a Good One.—Mrs. Mahala Burns, Savanna, Mo., relates an experience, the like of which has happened in almost every neighborhood in this country, and has been told and related by thousands of others, as follows: "I used a bottle of Chamberlain's Colic and Diarrhoea Remedy about nine years ago and it cured me of flux (dysentery). I had another attack of the same complaint three or four years ago and a few doses cured me. I have recommended it to dozens of people since I first used it and shall continue to do so for I know it is a quick and positive cure for bowel troubles."

Hunger, the Best Sauce.—Sauce is used to create an appetite or relish for the food. The right way is to look to your digestion. When you have good digestion you are certain to relish your food. Chamberlain's Tablets improve the digestion, create a healthy appetite and induce a gentle movement of the bowels.

PROPOSED AMENDMENT TO THE CONSTITUTION SUBMITTED TO THE CITIZENS OF THE COMMONWEALTH FOR THEIR APPROVAL OR REJECTION. AT THE ELECTION TO BE HELD ON TUESDAY, NOVEMBER 2, 1922, BY THE GENERAL ASSEMBLY OF THE COMMONWEALTH OF PENNSYLVANIA, AND PUBLISHED BY ORDER OF THE SECRETARY OF THE COMMONWEALTH, IN PURSUANCE OF ARTICLE XVIII OF THE CONSTITUTION.

Number One.

A JOINT RESOLUTION Proposing an amendment to section one (1) of article fifteen (XV) of the Constitution of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania.

Section 1. Be it resolved by the Senate and House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania in General Assembly met, That the following amendment to the Constitution of Pennsylvania be, and the same is hereby, proposed, in accordance with the eighteenth article thereof:—

That section one of article fifteen, which reads as follows:

"Section 1. Cities may be chartered whenever a majority of the electors of any town or borough having a population of at least ten thousand shall vote at any general election in favor of the same," be, and the same is hereby, amended to read as follows:

FIREMEN'S CONVENTION AT McSHERRYSTOWN ON MONDAY

The Co. Firemen's convention will be held in McSherrystown on Labor Day, Sept. 4, and the plans for the celebration are now completed. Each The meeting will be held in St. Mary's hall at 8:30 a. m. at which time officers will be elected for the ensuing year, the place of holding the next annual convention selected and other important business transacted. A parade has been arranged to take place at 10:15 o'clock. Immediately afterward the firemen will take cars for Witmer's park where a picnic will be held during the remainder of the day. A dancing floor, 60 feet square, has been erected at the park.

A good orchestra will be secured for dancing. Refreshments will be on sale at stands and a midway will be erected on the grounds. Amusements of all sorts for young and old will be provided. Judge Eugene Bonniwell, Philadelphia, past president of the state firemen's association, will deliver an address on the picnic grounds at 2 p. m.

Arrangements have been made to have the grounds illuminated by electricity and the affair will be kept up until a late hour. Large delegations of firemen from each company in the association are urged to take part in the parade, and the picnic is open to the public.

Ample police protection will be provided against bootlegging at the Firemen's Convention. Souvenir badges will be furnished to all firemen and their guests who attend this affair. Arrangements are being made to serve dinner and supper to 2000 people, who are expected to attend.

The committee has underwritten expenses by taking out rain insurance for $500.

The parade is expected to include every fire company except New Oxford and practically every band in Adams county together with one or two from other places. Several of the companies have bought new uniforms specially for this event. The speakers also include H. O. Holstein, Harrisburg; Jacob Weaver, Esq. and John W. Heller, Esq., of York. Plans will be laid at the meeting for Adams county to have an entire division in the parade at the state firemen's convention in Harrisburg in October.

Geo. F. Eckenrode will be chief marshal with the following acting as aides: F. V. Topper, John Timmins, Ray Sheely and Joseph Hemler. The parade will consist of several divisions.

Hot Weather Diseases.—Disorders of the bowels are extremely dangerous, particularly during the hot weather of the summer months, and in order to protect yourself and family against a sudden attack, get a bottle of Chamberlain's Colic and Diarrhoea Remedy. It can be depended upon. Many have testified to its excellence.

The Abbottstown troop of Boy Scouts spent Monday and Tuesday at the Scout Camp, near Dicks. Seventeen scouts went into camp Sunday noon. Jas. Baugher, of New Oxford, acted as one of the instructors. The Abbottstown troop was in charge of Prof. John A. Hale, scoutmaster, and George Haines, assistant scoutmaster.

A reunion of the Wolf family was held at Caledonia Park Saturday with 125 members present. It was decided to hold the next meeting at Marsh creek, near Gettysburg, where the ancestors of the Wolf family first settled on coming to this country. Emory Gerriek, Littlestown, was elected treasurer.

J. W. Cassatt, near New Baltimore, held the lucky card and secured a new 1923 Ford touring car, given away by the Abbottstown Garage as a matter of advertising on Saturday.

After tomorrow, the Gettysburg curb market will open at 6 o'clock.

DRINK MORE WATER IF KIDNEYS BOTHER

Eat less meat and take Salts for Back-ache or Bladder trouble—Neutralizes acids.

Uric acid in meat excites the kidneys, they become overworked; get sluggish, ache, and feel like lumps of lead. The urine becomes cloudy; the bladder is irritated, and you may be obliged to seek relief two or three times during the night. When the kidneys clog you must help them flush off the body's urinous waste or you'll be a real sick person shortly. At first you feel a dull misery in the kidney region, you suffer from backache, sick headache, dizziness, stomach gets sour, tongue coated and you feel rheumatic twinges when the weather is bad. Eat less meat, drink lots of water; also get from any pharmacist four ounces of Jad Salts; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine. This famous salt is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to clean clogged kidneys and stimulate them to normal activity, also to neutralize the acids in urine, so it no longer is a source of irritation, thus ending bladder weakness.

Jad Salts is inexpensive, cannot injure; makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink which everyone should take now and then to keep the kidneys clean and active. Druggists here say they sell lots of Jad Salts to folks who believe in overcoming kidney trouble while it is only trouble.

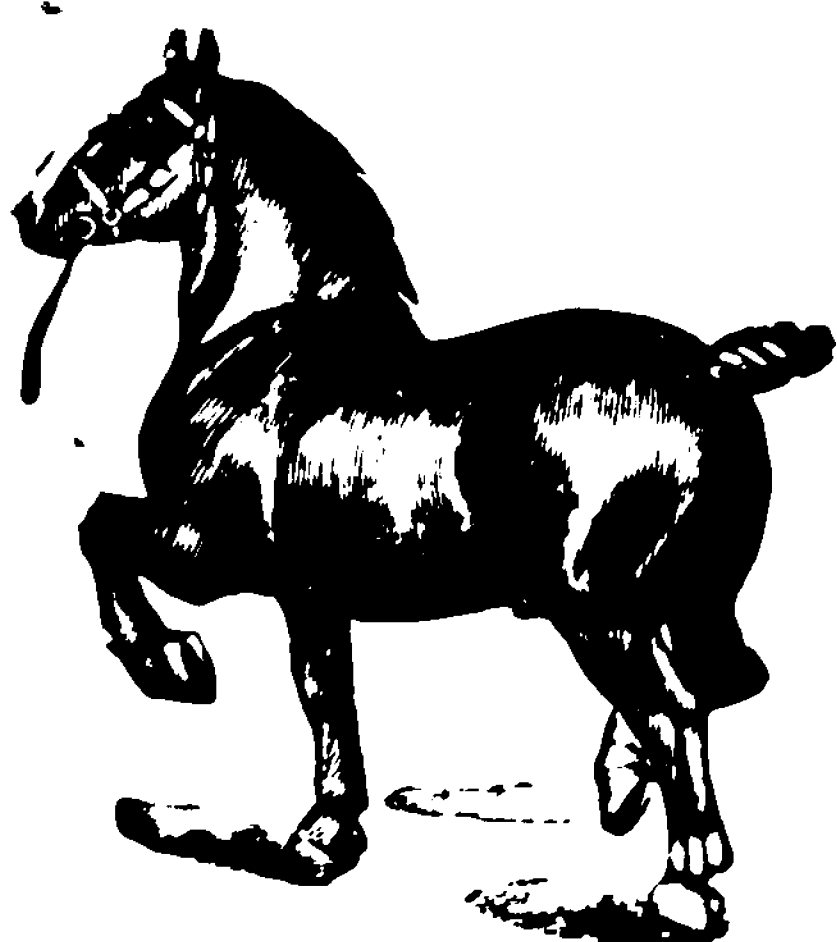

CREAM CLEARS A STUFFED-UP HEAD

Instantly Opens Every Air Passage—Clears Throat Too.

If your nostrils are clogged and your head is stuffed because of nasty catarrh or a cold, apply a little pure, antiseptic cream into your nostrils. It penetrates through every air passage, soothing and healing swollen, inflamed membranes and you get instant relief.

Try this. Get a small bottle of Ely's Cream Balm at any drug store. Your clogged nostrils open right up; your head is clear; no more yawning or snuffling. Count fifty. All the stuffiness, dryness, struggling for breath is gone. You feel fine.

OSTEOPATHY CONFORMS TO NATURAL LAWS

There is no escape from the mandates of natural law.

When structures of the body are not formally adjusted the mechanism that Nature provides cannot work properly.

It is only natural that lowered resistance should follow such a condition, and that sickness should be the inevitable result.

When the body is sick something is wrong with natural processes. The osteopathic physician proceeds toward restoring health by locating the structure that interferes with normal operation of the bodily mechanism and restores it by adjusting its correct relationship of part to part.

Once this has been accomplished natural processes are restored and natural law brings health again.

DRINK HOT TEA FOR A BAD COLD

Get a small package of Hamburg Breast Tea at any pharmacy. Take a tablespoonful of the tea, put a cup of boiling water upon it, pour through a sieve and drink a teacup full at any time during the day or before retiring. It is the most effective way to break a cold and cure grip, as it opens the pores of the skin, relieving congestion. Also loosens the bowels, thus driving a cold from the system.

Try it the next time you suffer from a cold or the grip. It is inexpensive and entirely vegetable, therefore safe and harmless.

RUB BACKACHE AND LUMBAGO RIGHT OUT

Rub Pain and Stiffness away with a small bottle of old honest St. Jacobs Oil

When your back is sore and lame or lumbago, sciatica or rheumatism has you stiffened up, don't suffer! Get a 35 cent bottle of old, honest "St. Jacobs Oil" at any drug store, pour a little in your hand and rub it right into the pain or ache, and by the time you count fifty, the soreness and lameness is gone.

Don't stay crippled! This soothing, penetrating oil needs to be used only once. It takes the ache and pain right out of your back and ends the misery. It is magical, yet absolutely harmless and doesn't burn the skin.

•Nothing else stops lumbago, sciatica and lame back misery so promptly!

RED PEPPER FOR RHEUMATIC PAIN

Red Pepper Rub takes the "ouch" from sore, stiff, aching joints. It cannot hurt you, and it certainly stops that old rheumatism torture at once.

When you are suffering so you can hardly get around, just try Red Pepper Rub and you will have the quickest relief known. Nothing has such concentrated, penetrating heat as red peppers. Just as soon as you apply Red Pepper Rub you will feel the tingling heat. In three minutes it warms the sore spot through and through. Pain and soreness are gone.

Ask any good druggist for a jar of Rowles Red Pepper Rub. Be sure to get the genuine, with the name Rowles on each package.

SULPHUR SOOTHES UGLY, ITCHING SKIN

The First Application Makes Skin Cool and Comfortable

If you are suffering from eczema or some other torturing, embarrassing skin trouble you may quickly be rid of it by using Mentho-Sulphur, declares a noted skin specialist.

This sulphur preparation, because of its germ destroying properties, seldom fails to quickly subdue itching, even of fiery eczema. The first application makes the skin cool and comfortable. Rash and blotches are healed right up. Mentho-Sulphur is applied like any pleasant cold cream and is perfectly harmless. You can drag a small jar from any good druggist.

FARMERS PICNIC BIG SUCCESS

The tenth annual picnic of the Farmers Picnic association, near Abbotstown, opened Thursday, with an attendance of 1,000, twice as large as the opening day last year. The 18 acres of land, which comprises the association's grounds, were filled with 75 agriculture, poultry, automobile and live stock exhibits, fakers and side shows. Due to the inclement weather Thursday night, the picnic was discontinued that night. Friday was politicians day upon the grounds. John A. McSparran, Democratic candidate for governor, was the principal speaker. J. Albert Gross, York, Democratic chairman of York county, was another speaker. Mr. McSparran was introduced by former Democratic Congressman George Benner, Gettysburg.

Friday saw a crowd of over 10,000 persons on the grounds. It is estimated that there were 2,000 automobiles on the grounds. The East Berlin band furnished music. The K. of P. band, Hanover, was the attraction on Saturday. Several state police were detailed to the grounds to assist in the handling of traffic.

Breaking all previous records, a crowd estimated at 15,000 attended the exhibition on Saturday. Fully 4,000 autos were parked upon the grounds. Officers of the association claim this was the largest and best fair ever held. During the three days of the picnic over 125 persons exhibited on the grounds. Saturday afternoon the judging started, $500 being given in awards. The total attendance was approximately 30,000. The 11th exhibit will be held next August at a date yet to be decided. The grounds were enlarged for this year's picnic and it is planned to erect a pavilion and agriculture hall before next year.

About 100 members of the McIlhenny and King families were present at the 12th annual reunion of these clans Saturday at the Great Conewago Kirk. Officers of the organization were re-elected unanimously and it was decided to hold another reunion at the same place next year. Mrs. Charles Knox was appointed to arrange the program.

At a recent meeting of the Gettysburg school board, the resignation of Miss Janet Myers was accepted, and A. B. Morganthall, of Waynesboro, was elected to fill the vacancy on the faculty of the high school. Miss Myers will finish a course in domestic arts at the U. of P.

A party of nurses from the Mercy hospital, Baltimore, are on an 18-days' outing at Dicks.

—to Help Your Hens Over the Moulting Season

Now is the time to prepare your hens for big egg production during the fall and winter months. Don't let them linger along from four to six months moulting. Get them through the moult QUICK, because a moulting hen is an expense instead of a producer. Every day counts and the feeding method you employ now determines the profits biddy will produce for you later on.

Try the FUL-O-PEP Way

The best known feeding method during the moulting season, is half FUL-O-PEP DRY MASH and half FUL-O-PEP GROWING MASH. Keep it before your hens all the time and you will be agreeably surprised how quickly they will finish moulting and be back on the nests, shelling out the eggs in large numbers.

FUL-O-PEP POULTRY FEEDS

enable poultry raisers to get results from poultry that at one time were considered impossible. Ful-O-Pep Growing Mash for growing birds enables you to produce big healthy, early laying pullets at less cost than any feed known. Keep it before the growing stock all the time—don't stop feeding it until pullets are six months old. Then feed Ful-O-Pep Dry Mash—the feed that makes more eggs all the year round. These feeds have opened the door of opportunity to poultry raisers. Poultrymen everywhere are getting real results from these guaranteed feeds. Feed the Ful-O-Pep Way and your success with poultry is assured. The famous Ful-O-Pep line of poultry feeds was originated and is produced by The Quaker Oats Company, Address Chicago, U. S. A., the largest manufacturers of Poultry feed in the world. (N-6)

DEATHS

Henry H. Pfeiffer, son of the late Dr. Geo. Pfeiffer, and a native of New Oxford, died Friday morning at his home in York following a lingering sickness. He was 77 years old and was for a number of years a teacher in the grade schools of Baltimore, Hanover and McSherrystown. Because of ill health, Mr. Pfeiffer retired from active work about 20 years ago. He leaves five sons, his wife and one daughter; also one brother and one sister, Captain J. Quincy A. Pfeiffer and Mrs. George Zeigler, both of Gettysburg. The funeral was held on Monday afternoon with interment at Neiman's church, Shiloh.

Miss Carolyn Gubernator died in Los Angeles, Calif., on August 22nd, from cancer. Miss Gubernator was born in Coneyago township, 55 years ago, a daughter of the late James W. and Catherine (Reilly) Gubernator. About 40 years ago the family moved to St. Louis, Mo., where they have since resided. Her health becoming impaired she had gone to California to recuperate. The remains were taken to St. Louis where they were interred. She is survived by three sisters; and an aunt, Mrs. C. A. Norris Washington, D. C. formerly Miss Mary J. Reilly, of Coneyago township.

Mrs. Julian Ruhl, wife of Jesse Ruhl, Carlisle, a former resident of Franklinton, died from a complication of diseases on Wednesday. Besides her husband she is survived by 4 children. The following brothers and sisters also survive: Mrs. Joseph Hershey and S. U. G. McCreary, Franklinton, and J. L. McCreary, Dillsburg.

Samuel A. Knox died at his home near Gettysburg, Wednesday evening, after a seven weeks' illness of dropsy and heart disease, aged 64 years.

Mrs. Knox was born in Carroll county, Md., and 26 years ago moved to Adams county where he had since resided. His widow survives, with the following children: Francis, Samuel and Arthur V. Knox, all of Gettysburg; John H. Knox, Mrs. Bernard Redding, Mrs. Harry Roddy and Robert W. Knox, of Cumberland township; and Mrs. Lewis Overholtzer, of Freedom township; also three sisters and one brother.

Mrs. Rebecca M. Eline, wife of John A. Eline, died at her late home in McSherrystown, Sunday evening, from a complication of diseases, aged 69 years. The deceased leaves her husband and four children: John A. Eline, Jr., of McSherrystown; Misses Mary, Pauline and Eva Eline all at home. Also one sister, Mrs. Mary Little, of Philadelphia and a brother, Adam Leonard, of Midway.

Charles S. Hagerman died suddenly from acute indigestion at his home in McSherrystown, Friday morning, aged 49 years. Mr. Hagerman, who had been a cigar maker, was at work as usual Thursday and retired about his usual time. It is not known what brot on the attack by which he was seized while in bed shortly after midnight. He was able to arouse his daughter, Helen, who summoned Dr. A. C. Rice at once. Mr. Hagerman was able to go downstairs, but he had passed away by the time the doctor arrived. The deceased was a son of John and Emma Hagerman. His wife passed away several years ago. He is survived by his mother and five children: Lewis Hagerman, of McSherrystown; Mrs. George Noel, of Edgegrove; Charles, Jr., Helen and Joseph Hagerman, at home; and also by the following brothers and sisters: Elmer Hagerman, of Warren; Mrs. George Lau, of Baltimore; Mrs. C. A. Decker, Waynesboro; Mrs. Jno. Storm, Gettysburg; Gregory and Frank Hagerman, Mrs. Gregory Neiderer, Mrs. Lawrence C. Myers, and Miss Laura Hagerman, of McSherrystown, and Mrs. William Smith, of Mt. Pleasant township. The funeral was held on Monday, with a high mass of requiem in St. Mary's church, McSherrystown, and interment in Coneyago chapel cemetery.

Mrs. Rebecca Bish died at the home of her son, Murray Bish, in Littlestown, on Sunday morning from infirmities, aged 84 years. The deceased was born in Union township. Her husband, Nicholas Bish, died about 20 years ago. She leaves 3 children: Murray, Wilson and John Bish, of Littlestown.

COURT ITEMS

August term of Adams county's Quarter Sessions court convened on Monday morning. I. D. Knouse, of Menallen township, was appointed foreman of the grand jury.

Deliberations of the grand jury resulted in finding two true bills, Monday. The first was found against Fred Samm, of near Fairfield, who was indicted on the charge of illegal manufacture, transportation and sale of intoxicating liquor. The alleged offense was committed July 2, while the Marine encampment was in progress at Gettysburg. It is understood his case will be continued until the November term of Quarter Sessions court. All time at the present session will be devoted to the trial of the charge against Helen Geiselman, it is believed by court officials.

A true bill was returned charging H. C. Marko, an alleged stock salesman of the Glass Casket Corporation, of Altoona, with having misled J. Harrison Frazier, of Gettysburg, out of $800 in cash and securities on a stock swindle. He is indicted with obtaining money under false pretenses. Marko is still at large, but police flyers have been sent to cities where he is believed to be working his alleged stock swindling game.

Exterior conditions at the County Jail are "not so satisfactory" while the interior is in "fair shape" when the "age of the jail" is taken into consideration, was the gist of a report of the grand jury to the court, Tuesday. The grand jurors recommended that repairs be made to spouting and to wall surrounding the outer yard. Conditions at the County Home are satisfactory, according to the report of the grand jury. However, they recommended repairs to fences on the farm at the home.

Charged by Ralph D. Early, of Middletown, N. Y., with having stolen his auto and the contents of several suitcases, Edw. Noble entered a plea of guilty before court Tuesday morning after the grand jury found a true bill against him. He will be sentenced at the conclusion of the present trial.

Thomas Myrick, Gettysburg, charged with the larceny of some chickens and an attempt to break jail, was sentenced Saturday to Glenn Mills reformatory for an indefinite period.

John E. Collins, of Littlestown, charged with driving an automobile while under the influence of intoxicating liquor, was fined $100 and ordered to pay the costs of the prosecution.

In the case of Walter Clouser, of near Littlestown, a minor, charged with the theft of a sum of money from a neighbor, the Court asked additional information on the act before imposing sentence.

REMEMBER WHEN!

Mrs. Adeline King, 82, wife of Geo. King, died at her home in East Berlin; and Mrs. Susan Weisensale, 79, wife of Casper Weisensale, Coneyago township, died, 25 years ago Thursday.

The SANDMAN STORY

WHICH WAS QUEEN?

MISS CORNSTALK grew very proud as the days went by and her silky hair floated over her pale green dress in the breeze.

"It is plain to me that I am the queen of the field," she said to the Pumpkin Vine, crawling on the ground nearby. "I feel sure that I was intended to be queen, else why should I be so much above all others around here?"

"We each play our part, I think," replied the lowly Pumpkin Vine. "My day has not come yet. I am sure when you behold me in my glory you will see that I am quite your equal, though I do not think I was made to be queen."

"I should say you were not," haughtily replied Miss Cornstalk, looking on Pumpkin Vine with scorn.

Pumpkin Vine Had a Pumpkin.

"and now that I think of it I wonder I even so far forgot my high station as to speak to you."

"A queen should speak only to her equals, and I wish you would not address me again, for I really cannot notice one so far beneath me."

Pumpkin Vine said something about kindness being the greatest virtue a queen could have, but Miss Cornstalk only shook her silken locks that they might glisten in the sunlight and held her head higher than ever as her green sash fluttered in the breeze.

But one day when Pumpkin Vine had forgotten all about the unkindness of haughty Miss Cornstalk, down fell something close beside her.

Pumpkin Vine now had a large yellow pumpkin of which any vine should have been proud, but she did not brag about its gold. She knew that other vines had golden pumpkins and that it was not the only beautiful thing in the world.

But what was it that lay on the ground beside her? Pumpkin Vine looked and there was Miss Cornstalk, proud and haughty no more, for her silken tresses were gone and her green sash and all that was left of her former glory was a long stalk with husks withered and dry.

HOW TO EAT

CORN—Pick up the ear of boiled corn with one hand and eat it from the ear. This is in perfectly good form and is better than cutting the kernels from the ear at table.

Cherries—Lift the cherry by the stem to the mouth, and discard the pit into the right hand. Then lay it on the plate.

Baked Potatoes—Cut them lengthwise or crosswise on the dinner plate if they have not already been opened in the kitchen. Take the morsels of potato from the open skin with the fork. Do not expedite this by squeezing the skin with the fingers. If you like to eat the skin cut the potato with the skin on with the knife and fork. Never scrape the skin with the side of the fork to get the last morsel.

Berries—All should be eaten with a fork or spoon excepting strawberries which, if they are served with the hulls on, are raised to the mouth by means of the hull and bitten off.

Lobster in the Shell—It is necessary and quite all right to pull such sea food apart with the fingers and such things as shrimps may even be separated and peeled with the fingers. However great daintiness should be exerced in doing this and one should take care not to put the fingers to the mouth or to eat the fish with the fingers. The fork should be used to convey it to the mouth though the fingers may be used in separating the parts of the fish.

"What's in a Name?"

By MILDRED MARSHALL

FACTS about your name; its history; meaning; whence it was derived; significance; your lucky day and lucky jewel

MILDRED

MILDRED is something of a holy name, since it has a heritage closely associated with religious orders. Though said to be of Teutonic origin, it was exclusively Saxon in its early use; indeed it may be said to be almost Mercurian, since its first appearance was in the family of King Merowald.

Mild was a Saxon word meaning "mild", and by the addition of "red", another Saxon term signifying "command", the feminine name Mildrith was formed. Because it was translated to mean "mild speech," it was much used as a name for gentle damsels with religious inclinations.

King Merowald had three daughters whom he named Mildgyth, Mildburgh, and Mildrith—thus employing all versions of the name then in use. All three became nuns of a holy order. The two latter were later abbesses, one in Shropshire, the other in the Isle of Thanet. They were finally canonized in recognition of their saintly lives, as Mildburgh and Mildreda.

Thus Mildred, Mildrid, or Mildreda (as you prefer) came into existence and straightway won great popularity in Shropshire and, later, throughout all England. Germany adopted Mildred, but it has never had definite vogue there in spite of its supposed Teutonic origin. The consonants were too harsh for France and Spain, though the latter occasionally employs Mildreda, accenting only the vowels in the soft Latin manner.

Mildred was the name given to the famous daughter of Bureleigh and through her, its place among English maidens was forever assured. Recently it was revived to even greater vogue in England and America and etymologists claim that the record of babies christened by that name in late years, would be astounding and unbelievable.

The emerald is Mildred's talismanic

gem. It is said to promise her a keen intellect, charm, and success in affairs of the heart. The hawthorne, signifying hope, is her flower. Wednesday is her lucky day and three her lucky number.

THE ROMANCE OF WORDS

"BOARD"

THE resources of a language for the expression of thought are frequently increased by attributing to the same word a number of different meanings. Thus we have "post"—from the Latin pono, "I place"—showing up in such words as "postage," "post-haste," "post-office" and the like, while "head" and "court" are others of the same type. But, of all these, the most interesting is "board," originally connected with "broad" and applied to that form of timber which is characterized by its breadth rather than its thickness.

Several boards manifestly go to make up a table but, in the old days, a single plank, rather flimsily supported, was sufficient for this purpose. We, therefore, have the use of the word in the sense of the table itself—the "festive board"—and also the meals, "board and lodging." The significance of the table is also apparent in the use of the word in such titles as Board of Trade, Board of Commerce and the like—all of these bodies meeting around or sitting beside a table. Again, "board" is specifically used to denote the plank covering of a vessel, and in this sense, gives rise to a new group of phrases, of which "aboard" and "above-board" are typical. The paper-maker, too, has his technical uses for the term. To him it signifies the stiffest and thickest—the most board-like—of his products, and "card-board" is the result.

YOUR HAND

How to Read Your Characteristics and Tendencies—the Capabilities or Weaknesses That Make for Success or Failure as Shown in Your Palm

A BUSINESS PERSON'S HAND

AS SHREWDNESS and caution are necessary to the business man or woman, in order to help in success, the line of life and the line of the head should be joined above the thumb. The line of the head must be strong, as brain power is required in great measure in struggling for success in business. Therefore, the line of the head should be clear and well-marked, and should extend right across the hand.

Of course, good fortune is necessary in business, and this is indicated by a strong line of fortune having its rise in the line of life and running toward or into the finger of Mercury, or little finger. If, in addition, there is a strong, short line on the mount of Mercury, it is also a very good sign of fortune in business.

THE WIDOW

SYNOPSIS.—Looking over Big Muskeg, a seemingly impassable swamp in the path of the Mississipi railroad, Joe Bostock, builder of the line, and Wilton Carruthers, chief of engineers, are considering the difficulties. A rifle shot instantly kills Bostock and breaks Carruthers' arm. Carruthers tries to carry the body to a post of the Hudson's Bay company, where McDonald is the factor. McDonald's daughter, Molly, sees Carruthers struggling in the muskeg and drags him from the swamp, with his burden. Unaccountably, her father objects to her saving Carruthers. Weakened by his wound and exertions, Carruthers is disturbed by the appearance of Tom Bowyer, Bostock's business rival and personal enemy. Bowyer insults Molly, and Carruthers strikes him. Carruthers declares his love for Molly. She promises to be his wife. Carruthers has to reach the town of Clayton to attend a meeting at which Bostock's enemies plan to wrest control of the Mississippi from him. Molly goes with him. They are delayed by a storm. Attacked by his dogs, Carruthers' life is saved by Molly, who is forced to kill the animals. "The snow, the snow!" They set out on foot for Clayton, reaching it with Carruthers in an almost dying condition. He is in time to foil Bostock's enemies and keep control of the line for Mrs. Bostock. He finds enemies at work at Big Muskeg. Bowyer persecutes Molly with attentions.

CHAPTER VII

Inside Information.

Wilton's first act on reaching the shack was to write a letter to Inspector Quain, informing him of the presence of Hackett and Tonguay at the camp, and telling him of their liquor-vending activities. In the morning he sent for Andersen, who appeared disheveled, humble, and repentant.

"I thank you send me back to the cache—" the foreman began.

Wilton struck his fist on his desk. "No, Andersen, I'm not going to send you back to the cache," he answered. "You'll hold your job, and you'll keep the men under control and see that there's no more whisky-peddling around here."

"By Jink, Mr. Carruthers, you yooost bet I will!" cried the Swede. "I done all I could to drive them two fallers away from here. Last night I took one drink, thinking I'd get the men away quietly, and then—I guess I don't remember no more," he ended apologetically.

"If you see them around here again, or hear of them, you'll let me know at once," said Wilton. "That's all, Andersen. Just try to live up to your job; I don't expect impossibilities. And tell the men I want to see them at ten o'clock."

At that hour he went out to inspect the laborers, who were lined up outside the cook-house. They were a dirty, disheveled lot, still showing the traces of the last night's dissipation.

Wilton looked at them grimly. "Well, men, we've met one another already," he said. "I'm your new boss. You've had a taste of me, and you've seen something of my methods. I expect my workers to make good, and I expect to make good myself. And if any man brings liquor into camp, or sets

"Making men so that their mothers won't know them," answered the engineer. "It may be all right for those who like it, but it wasn't on my curriculum. In England, when a man misbehaves, we take out a summons against him."

"Where'd you serve it?"

"That's a problem," admitted Digby. "I've thought over that. But—this sort of thing wasn't what I signed on for. That's all there is to it. If you'd told me what was expected of me, I might have signed with you or I might not. I'd have thought about it. I object to my rights being invaded. So I wish to offer my resignation."

"All right," said Wilton shortly. Then, feeling that the other had a sort of justice in his attitude: "It is rather tough to expect you to do police work," he acknowledged. "But I don't think there will be any more of it."

Digby looked at him in frank astonishment. "Why, I like it!" he said. "I had the time of my life last night. It's simply the principle of the thing. But I'm afraid I didn't quite make my position clear."

"Not altogether," answered Wilton. "However, I'm sending some special mail down this noon, and you can go in with the sleigh."

Digby's defection was a serious blow, for it would be necessary to make arrangements for a man to take his place. However, Wilton decided to take no steps to that end immediately. He inspected the camp, saw that a good job was being made of the cleaning up, and went to look at Kitty's house.

This was built substantially of logs, and had already been half completed. It consisted of four rooms and an out-kitchen, and stood at the edge of the new road near the ridge, about five hundred yards from the nearest bunk-house.

That afternoon he made his first examination of the Muskeg. He took soundings in several places, but the peat seemed bottomless. Nowhere could he reach rock bottom, except within a few feet of the shore.

The underlying bed of peat was everywhere. He went two or three miles up and down the stream without discovering any way of bridging the Muskeg.

He was too busy now to see Molly more than an hour daily, but he always went to the portage for a short visit after supper.

The factor, who had learned to expect his coming at the same hour each day, withdrew upstairs before he arrived. Once or twice, when they came face to face, he turned his head away in sullen anger.

As a prospective father-in-law, McDonald seemed about as hopeless a proposition as could be conceived, but the time to consider his own and Molly's future would not come until the line was on its feet. Big Muskeg was the giant in the way. Often Wilton, staring down at its sullen depths from the top of the ridge, would feel it as a personal enemy, defying him to overcome it.

One evening Wilton was sitting in his shack, utterly disconsolate. He had sounded nearly every possible place without result, and even Molly had failed to cheer him. He saw no alternative before him except to return to Clayton and confess himself beaten.

Andersen tapped at the door and said that a man wanted to see him. Wilton rose up and, to his surprise, admitted Lee Chambers.

The engineer was roughly dressed and wretched-looking. He told Wilton that he had tramped in from Cold Junction, thirty miles southwestward, the present terminal point of the New Northern.

"I thought maybe you would give me a job," he said. "I've left Mr. Bowyer for good. We had some trouble. He wanted me to make a crooked report, and I would not do it. I'm through with him and his dirty schemes."

Wilton gave him a chair and looked him over coldly. He did not like Chambers, and he suspected that he was lying, and that Bowyer had sent him to him for his own purposes.

Digby's disappearance had left him in a hole, but that hardly justified his taking on Lee Chambers, though he was one of the ablest of his profession in Manitoba.

"Well, Mr. Chambers," he said, "I'm carrying on my work here on the lines established by Mr. Bostock. Joe Bostock had two maxims. The first was: 'Never lay off a man if you can help it.' The second was: 'Never take on a man who's left you.' And to be quite frank—I feel about the same way. You left the Mississippi, which had treated you well, and we have reason to believe you gave useful information to Mr. Bowyer."

"I swear I didn't!" shouted Chambers, springing to his feet. "Prove that, Mr. Carruthers!"

"I can't prove it," Wilton admitted. "I am giving you my personal feeling about yourself, in confidence."

"Well, it's a mighty poor sort of confidence," spluttered the engineer. "See here, Mr. Carruthers. I didn't come here to beg you for a job. I want one, and I can get one on any other line in Manitoba. But I want to even things out a little with Tom Bowyer first. He's played me a dirty trick, and I don't take things lying down. I know what your problem is. I know you can't cross Big Muskeg. Suppose I show you, eh? How'd you feel about it then?"

Wilton's cool glance never wavered. "I'm willing to hear more on the subject, Mr. Chambers," he said.

"Right! Before you'd even started to clear the bush I was up here sounding every yard of Big Muskeg clear along both shores. And there's rock bottom within two miles of here. Does that interest you, Mr. Carruthers?"

"It does," said Wilton frankly.

"If I show you—"

"I need an assistant, and you can have the position as long as you want it."

Lee Chambers grinned. "That's good enough for me," he said. "I'll hold it right along. There won't be any other road would have much use for me after Tom Bowyer finds out what I've done to him."

In Her Widow's Black She Looked Prettier Than Ever.

Wilton gave Chambers a bed in his shack. The next morning they started out to sound the muskeg. A little more than a mile north of the portage, where the river dwindled to a mere trickle between two lakes in summer, was an uninviting bed of peat, covered with rotten slush; it was one of the few spots where Wilton had not sounded.

"You'll get bottom here," said Chambers. He swept his arm upward. "You see, I've figured it out like this: Those ridges are limestone. But the foundation's granite. You've noticed that, of course. The granite was there first. The limestone was forced up later through the clefts by subterranean action. It filled up the holes and hollows and spread up above the granite till these bluffs were formed. But the granite hasn't shifted. Here's where the granite bed extends across the muskeg. The mud filled up the cleft and spread across the foundation. But the foundation's there. Try her out!"

Wilton got bottom after two or three attempts. As Chambers had said, here was the foundation for the permanent way—not the best conceivable, and one that would require considerable ballasting, but undeniably the only route possible.

The next day preparations were begun for cutting the new road from the camp. The weeks passed swiftly. With mid-April came the breaking up of the ice. The ground hardened, and the first team of horses struggled into camp, drawing its freight.

The end of April saw Kitty's house completed and the furniture installed, and the first day of May brought Kitty.

She had telephoned Wilton to expect her, and she came in a rig, with a cartload of trunks and packages behind. Within an hour she was ensconced snugly in the new cottage, with a camp cook detailed to look after her needs. In her widow's black she looked prettier than ever, and absurdly young even to be married.

Wilton had supper with her, and all the while they sat together at the table his heart was almost too full for speech. He was dreaming of the future with Molly, a future in which Kitty shared. He pictured her happily married—for Joe would have wished that, and Wilton's loyalty to the dead man had nothing awkward or sentimental in it.

Kitty tapped him on the arm, and he looked up to see her face in a charming smile, and mirth dancing in her blue eyes.

"What are you thinking of, Wil?" she asked.

"Kitty," he said, evading her question, "I think you are the pluckiest woman in the world."

"Why, Wilton?"

"To come up here and put up with these hardships, just because of Joe." She blushed faintly and lowered her eyes. "It was you who let me come, Will," she said.

"But you wanted to come because Joe would have liked it, Kitty. It's like you to hide your real feeling."

She laughed and made a little face at him. But after supper she grew serious as he spoke of the work and his success, about which he had written her.

"I thought you might be content to sit here and chat."

"I should be, Kitty. But I told her I was coming. And I said I had a surprise for her. Can't you imagine how pleased she'll be to see you?"

"Why, of course I'll come with you, Will," she answered.

And they strolled down side by side and made their way to the trading-store. They went in and, at the sound of their entrance, Molly came running downstairs, stopped short at the bottom and stared at Kitty as if she had seen a ghost. She put her hand to her heart with a sudden gesture of fear.

"Molly, this is the surprise I promised you," said Wilton. "What's the matter, dear? Did we startle you?"

Molly shook her head and came quickly forward, swallowing as if something was choking her. The women kissed each other. Then Wilton was aware that both were watching him.

All through the lively chat that followed he was conscious of that. He put the idea out of his mind with an effort, for he did not like subtleties of feeling that he could not understand. Yet there was a chilliness under the girls' chatter and laughter.

Presently Kitty said she was tired and must get back. Molly promised to come to see her as soon as possible.

Wilton and Kitty hardly spoke on the way home. When he left her at her door she turned to him and asked abruptly:

"Will, you are still as deeply in love with Molly as ever, aren't you?"

"Of course I am, Kitty," he answered.

"Then I am glad, for your sake and hers," answered Kitty, and went quickly into the house.

Wilton walked back to his shack, a little puzzled. He had arranged to show Kitty the progress of the work on the following morning; but when he called for her he found her in the midst of her unpacking, and she put it off until the afternoon. Wilton laughed, chided her and went to his work.

She kept him waiting till three o'clock, when they started. He felt the pride of the artist as he led Kitty from one place to another. Locomotives were snorting, and lines of ballast trucks occupied the narrow-gauge that had been laid down to the water's edge.

In the ballast pit, from which the screech of steam was heard from morn till night, the great, unwieldy steam-shovel scraped its huge steel teeth into the face of the cut with the scurrying of an ogre's feet, and, turning, disgorged its plunder into the empty trucks alongside.

Kitty shuddered and pressed Wilton's arm. "It's like—it's like some living monster, Will," she said. "Let's go on."

He led her toward the muskeg. But on the way he stopped suddenly beside the summit of the ridge.

"Kitty," he said, in a low voice, "I don't know if I ought to tell you—perhaps you'd like to know. This is where Joe—"

Her grasp upon his arm tightened convulsively. "No, no, Will," she said hurriedly. "I don't want to see it. I can't bear to think of it."

They followed the line of ballast trucks along the narrow-gauge down to the swamp's edge. Construction upon the foundations was well under way. Tons of debris had been poured into the muskeg, and had simply spread themselves over the bottom, finding their level like water. Soundings taken had showed the bedrock hardly raised from its level twenty feet beneath the surface.

Wilton and Lee Chambers had therefore begun the construction of trestle-work. Teams hauled bundles of logs, bound with a chain, to the scene of operations. The uprights for the lower tier were driven into the ground, and the horizontal members and diagonals were nailed up, completing a crazy, shaking structure just strong enough to take a pair of metals at the top.

As they reached the edge of this structure the whistle blew. The workmen knocked off and came slowly past them toward the camp. Wilton and Kitty stood alone at the edge of the embankment, where the flimsy structure of the trestle began.

Kitty looked at Wilton breathlessly. "It's wonderful, Will!" she said. "It makes me feel so out of place and useless."

Wilton looked at her in surprise. "Why, how can you feel that way, Kitty?" he asked reproachfully. "You have been loyal to the core to Joe!"

"Don't say that!" she cried fiercely, and, turning swiftly from him, began to make her passage across the temporary sleepers. Twelve feet beneath them the sluggish stream forced its narrow channel through the muskeg. Wilton called to Kitty.

"You'd better come back," he shouted. "It isn't very secure, and you might lose your footing."

"Ye go too far, Mr. Bowyer!" he quavered. "Ye canna insult my girl in my own house!"

Novelty is Lighter in Weight Than Many Crepe De Chines and Suitable for Gowns.

The styles brought out at this time of the year in a very large measure predate the fashions of the coming autumn. Women have proved that their tastes in dress are simple, for out of the multitude of ideas constantly launched, and many of them pushed to the utmost, those embodying simplicity invariably take a firm hold. The greatest successes known in the history of dressmaking have been made in recent years by designers who worked along these lines. Those who have eschewed complication and held to an almost stern simplicity have been the ones whose models have had the greatest vitality and endurance.

No stronger current has run through the stream of fashions during the last few years than the Vionnet genre or type of dress, asserts a writer in the New York Tribune. It never can be said of Vionnet's models that they definitely date themselves, as do most fashions that rage for a time. They are beautiful, artistic and becoming, and no one can deny that they are enduring. Women who have become accustomed to this type of dress continue from season to season to have a similar thing, and often, in ordering a model, have the same style copied two or three times, the only difference being in the color.

In materials, crepe de chine and crepe romaine are still favorites, but they have a new ally in a very lightweight wool material of crepe weave, which is now being used for hand-made dresses of the sort that have been so popular in crepe de chine, voile and handkerchief linen. These

This handsome new fall creation for street wear is made of navy poret. The collar, cuffs and belt are trimmed with caracul fur, side panel and sash trimmed with cut steel cabochons.

BLACK CRÉPE FOR DRESSES

All-Around Satisfactory Color Holds Favor With Many Women for Luncheon Time.

Many of the dresses seen at luncheon time are made of black crepe, for there is a certain portion of the population which never seems to care to desert that all-around and satisfactory color. These frocks are invariably long, and almost always they have some sort of draping at one side of the skirt which has a way of hanging much below the hem of the dress which, to begin with, is long enough to strike the ankles. Then this sort of frock you will find being worn with hats that are extremely large of brim, with little trimming, but with a great deal of line, which helps them to add materially to the grace of the costume as it originally existed.

Some frocks of foulard stand very high among those that are fashionable. They are especially those made of black and white or dark blue and white prints when they are made along formal lines. They, too, are draped, with the exception of a few little bits of lace used just as edging that are left to show their patterns quite unintercepted. One of these was of a black and white print, the design being of conventional roses in white that twined over the fabric in sprays. The skirt was so intricately draped that it was hard to tell exactly what the scheme of its design was founded upon, and the bodice, quite tightly fitted, had a square neck to carry out the lines upon which the dress was founded. With this was worn a white transparent straw hat show drawn work and Venetian ladder embroidery.

Many New York women have effectively thrown aside black and dull colors and appear in laces, chiffon—the delicacies of fashion. This gown is a combination of peach-colored taffeta, delicate lace and embroidery representing each flower that blooms in the garden.

It seems a contrariety that dress-makers should manifest so strong an interest in woolen materials at a season of the year when the mercury stands at its highest, but this novelty woolen is lighter in weight than many crepe de chine and is particularly suitable for dresses being made up at this time. It makes delightful frocks for the mountains or seashore, and models made from this fine wool crepe need not be packed away for another season when one comes back to town, but will be found very serviceable throughout the autumn and winter.

GOWNS FOR THE STOUT BRIDE

Care Should Be Taken to Avoid Boldly Overdressing; Long, Unbroken Lines Suitable.

There are stout brides to be dressed as well as slim ones and for them are suggested panels, long, unbroken lines or fine draperies that fall with a certain weight, but never should a plump figure call attention to itself by overdressing or by trying to follow some fashion, charming in itself, perhaps, but only adapted to the unusually tall and thin.

Sometimes, by boldly exaggerating curves, one can make them appear actually less as, for example, in the full petticoats of the time of Louis XVI, when a full hip was well disguised and a waist, however ample, appeared small in comparison.

Filled Blouses.
Not in many a season has the white filled blouse enjoyed such favor as now. Fillet and Irish lace are the accepted trimmings.

Separate Outing Coat.
Black velvet worked in white worsted and a white tub flannel skirt are a chic combination for sports and country wear.

trimmed with one large swooping bow of white moire ribbon across one side of the brim. A black chantilly lace veil draped over the brim and to the shoulders, and the earrings were made of long strings of white pearls.

The linen street suits are only just beginning to appear. And this season they are done in the shape of the very simplest of little frocks. There are very few coats and skirts of that tailored type which linen used so often to be. But the linen dresses follow those bright colors that the tweeds established, and then they are kept to the coat-dress type, with large sleeves and big pearl buttons, and shawl or surplice collars to add distinction to their cut and make.

Favored Shade.
Pale yellow georgette over white, the georgette embroidered with white soutache braid, is one of the popular combinations of the moment. The yellow is not so deep as the dent de lion of early spring nor yet so faint as the semi-ivory. It is more a lemon yellow, refreshing and summery in appearance, and looking its best when contrasted with clear white. With these gowns, which are usually made of organdie, go hats in the same shade, of crinoline trimmed with fair-sized silk sunflowers in a deeper tone.

Plaits Everywhere.
Plaited bands, plaited insets and plaited panels are noted frequently in the importations, both in silk and cloth models. Paton extracts infinite charm from the simple frock of flannel gown crepe inset with narrow bands of plaited ribbons in self-color.

"By Jink, Mr. Carruthers, You Yooost Bet I Will!" Cried the Swede.

hi. across the portage without my permission, I'll make him so that his mother wouldn't recognize him. Those of you who are dissatisfied can take your pay and go."

He went back to his shack. Digby, who had stood thoughtfully beside him during this colloquy, came in after him.

"There must be quite a considerable amount of this sort of thing, Mr. Carruthers?" he inquired.

"What do you mean by 'this sort of thing'?" demanded Wilton sharply.

MARRIAGES

Wm. Sadler and Miss Mary E. Miller, both of Gettysburg, were married at Westminster on Monday a week. The groom is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Murray Sadler, formerly of New Oxford.

A double wedding ceremony took place Thursday morning, when at a nuptial mass in the Church of the Holy Name at Camden, N. J., four young people of McSherrystown were the principals. Rev. Fr. T. Whalen, was celebrant of the mass. The contracting parties were Miss Norine Buntz, who was married to Charles C. Busbey, and her sister, Miss Annie Buntz, who became the bride of Harry Dougherty. The brides are daughters of Thomas C. Buntz; Mr. Busbey is a son of Mr. and Mrs. John L. Busbey and Mr. Dougherty a son of John L. Dougherty, all of McSherrystown.

Reed M. Schmuck, eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. E. R. Schmuck, and Miss Alice E. Cover, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Sam. Cover, Hanover, were married Friday in the parsonage of Trinity Reformed church, by Rev. Dr. M. J. Roth. Mr. Schmuck is connected with the Walter H. Barnitz Company.

John L. Getz, York, and Miss Goldie M. Barbehenn, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Barbehenn, of Glenville, were married in Harrisburg on Monday a week by the Rev. Baldwin. Her father was a native of Gettysburg.

Charles W. Rutschky, Jr., of Pottstown, and Miss Isabelle G. Knouse, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John A. Knouse, of Arendtsville, were married at the home of Rev. L. O. Carbaugh at Apollo.

George L. Haring, of New Cumberland, and Miss Esther E. Minter, a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John C. Minter, of Biglerville, were married at New Cumberland on Saturday by the Rev. C. H. Heiges.

Miss Mabel M. Tresler, of Allegheny, and J. C. Mainey, of Echb, Ore., were married on July 3. Mrs. Mainey's parents were former residents of Adams county. They moved to the West 21 years ago.

The home of Mrs. Charlotte Kelms, Columbia, was the scene of a wedding on Saturday morning, when her daughter, Miss Frances Kelms, was united in marriage with Guy G. Bruner, of Harrisburg, son of P. M. Bruner, prop. of the City Hotel, Gettysburg. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. J. M. Shelly, M. E. pastor.

At the Mühlenberg Lutheran parsonage, Spring Grove, on Saturday evening, Alvin Rudisill and Mabel Laughman, both of Jackson township, were married. They will reside on H. H. Loose and son fruit farm.

THE SICK.

Hugh Robert, son of Mr. and Mrs. Quintin Robert, White Hall, is suffering from diphtheria.

Mrs. M. A. L. Trostle, White Hall, has been on the sick list.

John Deardorff, Center Mills, who has been critically ill, is improved.

L. C. Pittenturf, York Springs, has been on the sick list for a few days.

Rev. Dr. Lindaman, pastor of Christ Reformed church, is afflicted with a nervous breakdown.

Reuben Roth has been seriously ill at his home in Biglerville.

REAL ESTATE SALES

Edward McGuigan, of near White Hall, has sold his farm, stock, farming implements and household goods to Edward Bowers, Philadelphia, who has taken possession and moved his family there on Monday. Mr. McGuigan will make his home with his daughter in York.

Robt. E. Leppo and wife to Charles H. Warner and wife, a property in Hanover.

Harris Brothers have purchased from Dr. H. L. Diehl the store and residence property in Gettysburg. The consideration was reported as $20,000. The purchase includes the store room now occupied by Harris Brothers, the office of Dr. Diehl and apartment upstairs. Possession will be given April 1st. Harris Brothers propose to extend the store room to the alley.

The farm of D. C. Shanbrook, near Two Taverns, consisting of 190 acres, which was offered at public sale on Saturday, was withdrawn at a bid of $50 per acre. Only a few bidders were present.

The public sale of the property of Charles Wolf, Littlestown, was not held on Saturday as advertised, the property being sold on Friday to Mrs. Edith Redding, of Gettysburg, at private sale. Possession Sept. 1st.

The Manahan farm along the Gettysburg-Hunterstown road was recently sold to M. Hartzell, of the State Highway Department.

John J. Tawney has sold to Wm. F. Hemler a 61-foot lot in Gettysburg. Mr. Hemler has broken ground for the erection of three frame dwellings on the lot.

Radford Lippy has purchased a lot in Gettysburg on which he expects to erect a modern dwelling next spring.

E. P. Miller has purchased the Wm. McTeaf property in Gettysburg.

The farm owned by Earl Stuller, along the Gettysburg-Emmitsburg road was sold to Jas. A. Kime, Gettysburg. The house owned by Mr. Kime was sold to Samuel L. Null, of Gettysburg. Mr. Stuller moved to York, Friday, Mr. Kime taking possession of the Stuller farm at once.

A SAFE TEST

For those who are in need of a remedy for kidney troubles and backache, it is a good plan to try Doan's Kidney Pills. They are strongly recommended by people in this vicinity.

Robert J. Cook, 245 N. Stratton St., Gettysburg, Pa., says: "My kidneys got out of fix. I felt mighty lame in the small of my back mornings and when I tried to bend sharp, stinging pains ran through my back. When I went to lift anything a pain cut me in my back which felt as if it were pulling me down. My kidneys seemed congested and were inactive. Doan's Kidney Pills had been used in my family so I got some. They went right the trouble and fixed me up and put my kidneys in good condition again."

MARRIAGE LICENSES

Lloyd Clouser and Hilda E. Frook, Hanover, at Westminster.

Dr. Willam Lau, of near Abbottstown, preached in the local M. E. church on Sunday morning.

MONEY BACK, SALESMAN FREED

The charges of false pretense and conspiracy with attempt to cheat and defraud, which were entered by E. B. Swope, A. M. Moore, C. J. Weaver and Edgar Weaver, of Gettysburg, against Wm. Schleim, alleged stock salesman of the Creager Systems, of New York, were withdrawn on Saturday after restitution of the money involved had been made and the defendant was discharged. These charges were preferred against Schleim as the outcome of certain stock transactions, in which it was said that Mr. Swope was involved to the extent of $3,000, Mr. Moore had given securities to the amount of $1,800, C. J. Weaver $4,500 and Edgar Weaver $600, making a total of $9,900.

Schleim was held in $12,500 bail by Justice Hill at a hearing on Wednesday. Shortly after Schleim was discharged by the Gettysburg authorities on Saturday, a warrant was sent there from York county for his arrest on a similar charge. However, the warrant could not be served. It is said that as soon as released from the custody of the sheriff, he was seen to motor in the direction of the Maryland state line.

60,000 LBS. OF WIRE NEEDED

Work of building the new transmission line thru New Oxford to Gettysburg is being rushed by the Hanover Power Co., so that the line may be completed within 6 months. The line will carry 13,000 volts and will require 60,000 lbs. of wire and 500 poles. Below the high voltage line there will be a line carrying 2,300 volts to serve patrons between New Oxford and Gettysburg. The cost of this line will be charged to customers, exclusive of poles, but this cost, according to officials of the company, will be less than installing a local lighting plant. It will, of course, deliver 24-hour service. Several hundred thousand dollars are being spent now on the company's plant at Hanover and its lines.

STATE'S OLDEST HARNESS MAKER

John Deeter, York, is probably the oldest harness maker actively engaged in the trade in that city. He has been employed in the shop of Noah C. May, (formerly of Hanover), for a period of 35 years. This is the only job Mr. Deeter has held since coming to this city in 1887, from New Oxford, where he learned the trade of harness making. Mr. Deeter says that when he first came to York there were 13 saddle shops throughout the city; now there are but 3. Mr. Deeter, is 56 years old, looks to be about 40 and works like a youngster of 21. —York Dispatch.

LABOR DAY MATINEE RACES

The annual Labor Day matinee races will be held at Griest Park, York Springs, Monday. This will be the last event of the season at the Park and a record-breaking crowd is expected to be present. There will be various amusements during the day. At 1 o'clock there will be a good ball game. There will be four classes of horses entered for the matinee races to be held that afternoon, free-for-all, 2:40 trot, 2:35 pace and mixed. A good band has been engaged to occupy the quarter stretch, and as usual the orchestra will be on the stage in front of the grandstand.
